BILLS PASS FIRST HOUSE HURDLEWin in Committee; Friends Jubilant.

BY CARL WARREN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—Chicago's program of enabling transportation legislation went over its first hurdle today with flying colors. Without dissenting vote, the municipalities committee of the house approved the six agreed bills submitted by the Springfield citizens committee.

Although the house group inserted several clarifying amendments in two of the measures and added one new bill to the list, it moved down in quick succession every amendment favoring the bill. Those which were recommended were brought in by friends of the program and do not, in any way, affect any of its major features.

"In my judgment, none of the bills have been harmed in the least," said S. S. Gorham, attorney for the citizens' committee, announced following the meeting. Mr. Gorham made it clear that he did not purport to speak for the city council or the companies but is generally understood that what he says is authoritative. Members of the council present at the meeting were satisfied and jubilant over the committee's action.

McDonough is Pleased.

"We are more than pleased with the attitude taken by the committee," said Ald. Joseph B. McDonough, chairman of the council transportation. "It appears that the members of the legislature, this time, really intend to give the power to solve our transportation problem and we have the highest hopes now that the bills will meet with success all along the line."

Members of the committee voting for the bills were: Schnackenberg, chairman; E. A. W. Johnson, J. J. Overland, Weeks, Beckman, Blackwell, Harris, Mancini, Ruddy, Ward, Frank Ryan, Noonan, McGrath, McSweeney, T. J. O'Brien, Jacobson, Schuman, A. Wilson, Cola, Igoo, and Hoff.

Representative E. W. Bederman voted for the bills with the explanation that he may oppose them on the floor of the house. Two members, J. C. Poffers and W. F. Propper were recorded as voting but not voting.

May Go to Vote This Week.

The bills tomorrow will go on second reading on the house calendar and may be finally acted upon the latter part of this week or the first of next week. The senate is expected to hold up action until the house is through with them.

The most important amendment adopted by the committee concerned House Bill 519, which would transfer the commission bill, providing for the appointment of a regional regulatory body and to permit the Illinois commerce commission, prior to formation of the regional group, to supervise consolidation of the lines. The amendment provided that the commerce commission cannot value the properties for rate making purposes at a price to exceed that at which the city can purchase the line.

Mr. Gorham explained that the purpose of the amendment was to meet the fear expressed by John Maynard Harlan, attorney for F. J. Lisman, that overnight the commission might boost the valuations and make millions of dollars.

"Mr. Harlan has built up a bugaboo in the minds of some of you which is entirely unjustified," he stated. "This amendment completely dispels any fears you may have."

City's Power Clarified.

A second amendment, adopted by the committee, applied to house bill 619, the so-called consolidation bill. It specified that the proposed unified company shall have no power to operate on the city streets "except with the express permission of the authorities controlling such streets."

The new bill recommended provided for the collection of special assessments for a subway over a period of 40 instead of 20 years. Such a measure, it was said, was suggested by advisors of Gov. Emmerson.

Each of the approved amendments was submitted to the committee by Chairman Schnackenberg, who explained that he had shown them in advance to Mr. Gorham and other sponsors of the bills and received their consent to introduce them.

Speaker David R. Shannon, chairman of the house, who introduced the bill for the citizens committee, spoke briefly to the legislative committee, at the opening of the session, urging its favorable action.

FIND MASSACRE
RANGE ON ISLANDWitness Identifies

A wooded and uninhabited island in the Rock river, five miles below Rockford, for years a suspected rendezvous for gangsters, became a focal point yesterday in the police investigation of the Moran massacre of St. Valentine's day.

A Rockford citizen who interrupted five men at machine gun practice on the island on Feb. 8, six days before the massacre, scanned photographs of a score of gunmen who at one time or another have been linked with the massacre firing squad.

Identifies One Gunman.

Frank L. Morrill of the Chicago detective bureau announced that the Rockford witness had identified one photograph as that of one of the five who used the island for a target range. The witness was "less certain about two other photographs. Morrill refused to divulge the names of any of the three.

Morrill, the Rockford witness, and Maj. Calvin Goddard, the ballistics expert now working with Chicago police, left Rockford for the island following the identification of the photographs. The witness retracted the incident of Feb. 8, after which Morrill and Goddard searched the undergrowth of the island. They found shotgun and small arms shells but no machine gun shells.

Watches Target Practice.

The Rockford witness was driving along the road skirting the Rock river Feb. 8 when he heard the rattle of machine gun fire across the water. He turned his car down a lonely lane, crossed a shaky wooden bridge which has since been washed away, and stopped to watch the five men, one of whom was training the weapon on a floating target fifty feet from shore.

The motorist tried a conversation about the weather. His remarks were met with silence. Sensing hostility, he drove off the island and forebore making a police report until Monday because, he said, he feared retaliation from gangsters.

Police Go to Wife's Home.

Last night, pursuing clues whose nature was not revealed, Morrill and Goddard drove on thirty miles to Kirkland, Ill., the home of Frank V. Thompson, machine gun peddler, who was jailed yesterday following his testimony before the resumed inquest in the massacre. It was understood that Morrill intended to take Thompson's wife in custody.

It was rumored in Rockford that a detective bureau squad would join Morrill at Kirkland. From there it was said, Mrs. Thompson would be escorted to Genoa, where she was expected delivery of a mysterious package mailed her from Chicago. She was to claim the package and was brought to it by Chicago.

Thompson, an ex-convict who fled to Canada when the coroner's jury learned that he had bought machine guns just before the killing of the seven Moran gangsters, was questioned for hours yesterday.

Thompson "Passes the Buck."

Although Coroner Bundesen refused to tell the nature of Thompson's testimony, it was reported that the prisoner had "passed the buck" and had said that he, after receiving the guns, had sold them all to another man, about whose connections he knew nothing whatever.

Thompson received at least nine machine guns, according to testimony given the coroner's jury by Chicago dealers. Asked repeatedly to tell to whom he delivered the weapons, Thompson is reported to have given the name of a man, but he claimed not to know the man's address, his business or his reason for wanting the guns, it was reported.

Returning yesterday from his hiding place in Windsor, Ont., Thompson, accompanied by his lawyer, Alex. King, walked into Coroner Bundesen's office and surrendered. He had been sought for more than two weeks, ever since Peter Von Frantzius, a north side sport goods dealer, admitted to the coroner's jury that he had sold the machine guns to Thompson.

Interviewed by newspaper men, Thompson and his lawyer refused to discuss his testimony. At first Thompson, who is a well built, sandy haired man of 38 years, glibly and politely parried questions.

Von Frantzius Is Held.

Von Frantzius himself was also in police custody last night, Coroner Bundesen said. The coroner declared that Von Frantzius has given false

THE ANNUAL STRUGGLE BEGINS

Student Pilot
Dies in Blaze
as Plane Falls

John L. Norris, 24 years old, an unlicensed pilot who three weeks ago organized a flying service, crashed to death and was cremated last evening in his company's only plane two minutes after he took off from the Akers airport at Grand avenue and Wolf road, east of Elmhurst.

Arthur L. Vorbau, his business partner, and George Walker, a licensed pilot and instructor at the field, saw the crash and ran a quarter of a mile to the flaming wreck. Before the pilot's body was removed the plane was reduced to a twisted skeleton of steel and wire. Vorbau and Norris were former classmates at the University of Illinois.

Goes Into Tail Spin.

Norris had taken off southward into the woods. The plane climbed easily for a minute, but at a 200 foot elevation shot sharply upward. The nose described a parabola and the ship shot straight down in a tail spin. Pilot Walker later told the county highway police that the ship, a Waco model 10 with a Curtiss OX5 engine, was in perfect order when he flew it in the afternoon.

Norris had been connected with aviation for several years, but had only fifteen hours' experience as a pilot. Upon his graduation from Proviso Township High school in 1926 he became associated with Tony Yackey, the war ace and friend of Col. Lindbergh, in the Yackey Aircraft corporation.

A few weeks before Yackey was killed in the collapse of a plane of his own manufacture Norris had gone to Champagne and entered the engineering school of the University of Illinois. There he met Vorbau and the two young men completed a year and a half of the course before returning to engage in commercial aviation.

Company Just Started.

Their company, the Liberty Air service, was incorporated at $20,000 and began operations on April 7 of this year. Vorbau said last night he was undecided whether to continue the enterprise alone. He is secretary-treasurer of the concern and Norris was president.

Norris is survived by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. John Norris of Augusta, Ga., a sister who lives with the parents; and another sister, Mrs. Lora Foote, 4655 West End avenue. He lived with Vorbau at 608 Superior street, Oak Park.

Mystery in Buckingham

Palace; Guard Vanishes

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, April 30.—A strange Buckingham palace mystery is engaging the attention of the military authorities. One of the crack guardsmen on sentry duty outside of the palace gates disappeared from his post early this morning. An "alarm" was raised but the missing guardman could not be traced. Several hours later his rifle and bearskin headress were found in an adjoining green park.

3 CLOSED DRINK
PLACES WRECKED
BY BOMB BLASTS

Bombers got busy shortly after 3 o'clock this morning and within half an hour three places within a short distance of each other had been partly wrecked and neighboring windows shattered. All the places bombed had been soft drink parlors, but had been closed by police orders some time ago, and police were at a loss for a motive. None of those bombed would venture a guess as to the reason. The loss was estimated at between $2,000 and $3,000 at each place.

The first place hit was a three story brick structure at 1101 Noble street, owned by Mrs. Katherine Kopske. Her son, Benjamin, formerly conducted a soft drink saloon on the first floor, but declares he has not been operating recently. In flats over the saloon six families lived, and all were routed by the bomb which was placed at the entrance of the saloon, the front of which was blown out.

At 1533 Wabasha avenue, the damage was more serious. That place formerly was conducted by Paul Buckowski, who with his family lived upstairs. The bomb was exploded in the doorway of the saloon room and wrecked the entire front of the structure, as well as damaging the interior.

At 1801 West North avenue, a bomb was exploded at the side door of the three-story building on the ground floor of which Joseph Kucharski until recently operated a saloon. It was damaged materially to the two others. Kucharski and his family, and eleven other families lived in flats above the place. None was injured.

Grandson of
Wed Actress

Hollywood, Cal., April 30.—[Special.]

Lilli Damita, French film charmer, is going to marry the young man who might have been the German kaiser if the world war had turned out differently.

The engagement announcement comes from the bridegroom to be himself, sitting in an apartment suite at the Villa Carlotta with blonde and smiling Lilli tucked into the bosom of his left shoulder during the conversation.

Louis Ferdinand, prince of Prussia, 21, son of the German ex-crown prince, is the happy husband to be.

Arrived Two Weeks Ago.

The prince arrived here two weeks ago and has been rushing Lilli ever since. The prince today said that he had so fallen in love with the United States that he is going to stay in Los Angeles, take a business job that has already been offered him, and probably will take out American citizenship.

The tall young man, who would be wearing a spiked helmet if things had not happened as they did in 1918, sat by eagerly listening while Lilli took up the talk. Young Hohenzollern met her in Berlin two years ago. They fell in love. She told him that her mind was on her career as an actress and not on young princes.

Louis Ferdinand nodded confirmation. They agreed to meet later, Lilli said, and the prince again nodded. The prince went to see her in her own country. She came to America, now the prince is here and she will marry him, but she will not yield her screen career.

At this point the prince broke in and said she doesn't need to. The actress professed to be solicitous about her fiancé's success in business.

When He Makes Success.

"When he makes a success we will be married," is the way she put it. As for the young man, who is the second son of the ex-crown prince, he apparently takes it for granted that Lilli already has made her success.

When the prince arrived here with one companion he used the name "Dr. Louis Ferdinand." But all Hollywood found him out shortly and calls him "Prince."

SHIP IS SINKING

OFF CALIFORNIA;

CALLS FOR HELP

San Francisco, Cal., April 30.—(P)

The steamship Kadak, broadcast an SOS call off Point Reyes, Cal., at 10:29 o'clock tonight.

The message said:

"We are sinking and want aid."

The Kadak is owned by the Alaska Packers' association and is listed as 115 tons gross.

The Kadak was bound from Nakh, Aleutian Islands, for San Francisco, and the message indicated she was on the rocks off Point Reyes, just north of the Golden Gate entrance to San Francisco bay.

Saloon Men
Register Kick
at the Cops

Once upon a time the mice held a meeting and wanted a bell put on the cat, but it was different, when the saloonkeepers of the stockyards district met in solemn convocation yesterday. They wanted the police kept away so the boys could play.

There they were at Martin McNally's hall at 47th and Halsted streets, Irish predominating. Poles and Lithuanians filling the ranks. There were about thirty in all. And they talked of the Liberty Bell rather than of bells on patrol wagons. Indignation prevailed in large quantities.

Who Makes the Laws?

"Do the police make the laws?" they wanted to know, and there was no answer. "Here we pay the city a license of $100 and then the cops come in and say to hell with our licenses; we must close anyway. Do the mayor and the aldermen control, or must we submit to police rule?"

"Are they gentle about closing you or do they enforce with an ax?" asked a reporter who was admitted to the last part of the meeting.

"They were polite enough in most instances," said Spokesman McNally, who has been a candidate for several political offices. "But here's a man who will tell you a story."

The Story of Mr. Adamitis.

Joe Adamitis, who kept a soft drink parlor at 4544 Wentworth avenue, was brought to the foreground and, with prompting from John B. Curtin, veteran saloonkeeper of the district, complained as follows:

"Last Wednesday I got $200 from the bank to cash checks. A policeman in uniform, suit number 673, came in and kicked my bartender in the shin and told him he had no business being open. The policeman took the value with the money and opened it. Then he put the money in his pocket. A detective showed his star and said he was a policeman, too, and he wouldn't let the other policeman take the money, but he did."

"On the way out the cop took two boxes of cigars and a handful from another box. George Hupp, who owns a poolroom, told the policeman he shouldn't do that and he almost got hit."

"I went over to the police station next day to tell about the policeman. The lieutenant said, 'Soft drink parlor? Get out. And he pushed me out.'"

What They're Going to Do.

"What are you going to do about it?" the protesters were asked.

"We're going to call all the politicians to another meeting," McNally declared. "We asked Jim Breen, the committeeman, and Ald. Billy O'Toole to be here today but they had a meeting. Congressman Tom Doyle was here and he made a speech, but he can't do anything. We're going to go to the mayor who told us if we voted for him we would get no more cops."

"We want Capt. Ben Enright back here, too. These are not all saloonkeepers here. Some are restaurant men and dry goods store owners. Business is bad for every one when we are closed. We want the police to let us alone and the politicians have got to do it for us."

View of Capt. Allman.

A block away in the Stockyards police station sat Capt. James Allman.

"I'd be glad to go there and make a speech if I was invited," he said. "I didn't close their places. I just advised them to close and they took my advice. Of course, they have a right to stay open if they have a license, but they haven't the right to sell moonshine and 34 per cent make a speech if I was invited."

Capt. Allman was sent to the Stockyards station the day ago with orders to dry it up. He regarded the meeting as a token of a pretension of efficiency. A search of the station records showed that star 673 is worn by Policeman Patrick O'Toole, who was transferred from the Stockyards station to Gresham when Capt. Enright was shifted.

ROB EVANSTON

PRIZE POLICEMAN

OF GUN AND STAR

Patrolman Albert B. Carr of the Evanston police force, winner of the $100 Patten award for meritorious service last February, was held up by two armed men while patrolling his beat near 534 Sheridan road last night and robbed of his gun and star. In the ensuing fight the policeman was slugged on the head. The robbers escaped.

Carr was walking his beat, he told Chief of Police William O. Freeman later, when he noticed two men standing at Sheridan road and South boulevard. As he passed them he suddenly felt a gun jammed into his back, he said, and heard an order to put up his hands. As he wheeled to resist the men slugged him, seized his gun and star and fled, firing one shot at him as he started to give chase, Carr declared.

A short while later, police were notified that the pair stopped the automobile of Stewart H. Smithson, 1551 East 12th street, and forced him to drive them to Ridge avenue and Thome street, Rogers Park.

Desay McNeil, lieutenant of Evanston's new watchmen, was called to the scene. Fred Mills, secretary of the Evanston company, 4110 Fullerton avenue. The evidence was a type of machine turned out by the Criminal court, and

Edward (Spoke) O'Brien, who kept south side racket and beer houses. He is charged, forced his way into the machine and by means of his revolver to a tough fight and settled in a slugging and head of a beer syndicate. His gambling joint at Crawford and North avenues was raided by the police several weeks ago.

Sam Hare, well-known cabaret operator and reputed owner of a big gambling house in the vicinity of 44th street and Broad boulevard.

Elmer A. Brown, a former committeeman on the south side, and now a deputy commissioner in the board of local improvements.

John W. Hoff, a south side ward politician.

Matthew J. Hines, owner of a large bowling alley at 42nd street and Ashland avenue and a close friend of "Doc" Reid.

Leonard Delta, Hubbard H. Cooper, Joseph M. Mahoney, Robert Graham, Jocko Davis, a man named Milburn, another named Carter and Frank Heydorn, alleged operators of slot machines, are also to be named in the indictment.

Sgt. Robert J. Sullivan, a member of the gambling squad commanded by Capt. George O'Connor, is the only minor police official named in the present true bill.

Refuse to Indict Alderman.

The name of one alderman was before the grand jury for possible indictment, but he was voted a no bill, it was reported.

Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers, who conducted the investigation, which brought about the true bills, refused to discuss what action the grand jury had taken, but he made it plain that future grand juries will be asked to resume work where the present body left off. He indicated that others, possibly another leading former city hall political leader, and some more police captains can expect to find themselves made defendants in the near future.

"We have not indicted any one except where we can show direct money payments," commented the prosecutor. "We will go on with the inquiry and expect more indictments."

The bombings at the Reid home and possibly other similar outrages will be part of the proof of the state at the trial.

Reached at his home last night Dr. Reid characterized the indictment as ridiculous.

"The whole thing is preposterous," he declared. "I never had any connection with the slot machine group and the indictment is a big surprise to me. If I were mixed up with this thing I certainly wouldn't be standing here laughing about it, but I'm not worried because they can't possibly show any participation on my part."

"I certainly don't want to be the star in a drama in which I did not participate, but of course I'll do anything my attorney says. Not having been indicted before, I don't know the procedure."

Reid Long Under Fire.

Reid, a dentist, made his political debut with the original Thompson administration, as city smoke inspector. As a side line he went into the oil business. He was always the center of political controversy. Reid held several city positions until finally he was made a target of the old school board investigation when he was asked to explain payments to him by a coal company under investigation. For a long time he was on the list of missing witnesses.

More recently Reid was made more or less of an outcast by certain leaders of the Crowe-Thompson machine, and therefore accepted no political appointments. He is said to have retained some political influence, however.

After a few years of turmoil over the rights of certain south side hoodlums, chieftains, bombings started in the south-side district and Reid was visited twice by the explosive experts. The accused police captains denied the charges last night. "I do not know anything about any so-called syndicate," said Capt. Delaney. "My district was comparatively clean of slot machines and when we did find them they were promptly wrecked. I have a letter from the Chicago Law

REPEAL ILLINOIS LAW WHICH SAVED SMALL FROM OUSTER SUIT

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—With scores of members revealing the votes they cast two years ago, the house of representatives today passed Representative Leroy M. Green's bill to repeal the amendment of the quo warranto law sponsored by Len Small to protect himself from proceedings to ouster him from the governorship.

When Small pressed the exemption or immunity amendment in 1927 it was passed by a vote of 108 to 29. The Green bill was passed today by a vote of 108 to 6.

"The act of 1927," said Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg, "was a serious and shameful blot on the record of the legislature. It is our duty to remove it."

Representatives M. P. Rice and Arthur Roe also spoke for the repeal. The only member who spoke against it was Harry McCaskrin of Rock Island.

And Order League commending me for keeping my district clean of slot machines.

"My record will show that I am absolutely clean," said Capt. Collins. "If any machines operated in my district they were promptly put out of commission. We either wrecked them or turned them over to the police department custodian and can show receipts."

"My district was one of the cleanest in the city," said Capt. Tobin. "I made slot machine arrests whenever a machine showed up and successfully prosecuted nearly every case. I am astounded by the charge."

Capt. McCarthy was out of the city on police business, and Capt. Malloy and Gill could not be found for interviews.

Malloy Once Suspended.

Capt. Malloy was in charge of the New City district in 1921 when a truckload of beer disappeared from 47th street and Kedzie avenue. Charges were made against the captain for not submitting a report to his superiors and he was suspended. He was once known as the car of the Chicago avenue district and was several times the target of rumors about gambling places operating in the district.

Committeeman Dyer issued a denial, asserting he had consistently led the fight against organized gambling in the Fifth ward. "I can only attribute this reported action to my disgruntled political enemies who have stopped at nothing to discredit me," he said.

"My fight against vice and gambling will continue. I am confident that when all the evidence is produced it will be established without question that these are trumped up allegations."

The evidence on which the true bills were voted came mostly from three former slot machine operators, who confessed to the prosecutors. They are W. D. Keeney, Alex Levine, and David C. Rockola, former head of a scale company at 546 East 67th street. He lived at 512 East 76th street.

Kept Secretly in Custody.

Rockola and Keeney were known as the payoff men, and it is reported that they told the jury about direct payments to Reid and O'Brien. Rockola has been a secret prisoner of the state's attorney for more than 2 months and only yesterday his identity became known when he went before the grand jury and testified.

The syndicate involved in the present conspiracy operated approximately 5,000 machines.

PICTURES KLAN AND DRY LEAGUE AS TWIN EVILS

House O. K.'s Bill for Klux to Bare Membership.

BY PARKE BROWN.

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—Pictured as the embodiment of the twin evils of intolerance and bigotry, the Ku Klux Klan and the Anti-Saloon league were the double target of the Illinois house of representatives today.

Having passed the Weber-O'Grady anti-prohibition bill a week ago today, the legislature turned their fire upon the Klan and continued to lambaste the dry organization on grounds that the liquor reformers travel hand in hand with the white sheeted knights, that they are found together behind all blue law legislation, and that they teamed up together throughout the last campaign.

"I don't say that every member of the Anti-Saloon league is a member of the Klan," said Minority Leader Michael L. Igoe, who wound up the attack, "but I do say that every Klansman is a faithful supporter of the Anti-Saloon league."

Double Barreled Subject.

This double barreled subject was raised in the lower chamber of the assembly when Representative William E. King, a Chicago Negro, called up for passage his bill requiring the Klan to file with the secretary of state its constitution, by-laws and rosters. It was passed by a vote of 80 to 39.

The debate and a roll call broken into by several additional speeches occupied more than two hours and a half. While much of the fervor displayed in the denunciations which took up most of that time was based on considerations of religion, race and color, the prohibition question was brought into the battle because the temper of this chamber is at white heat on that subject right now.

Those members who succeeded in passing the Weber-O'Grady referendum bill began working on the members of the senate, which now has the measure and has sent it to its judiciary committee. The plans about call for an effort to get the bill out on the floor of the senate without delay, on Thursday if possible, so that the real fight may be pulled off next week.

New help for this project has appeared in the person of Walter G. Hooke of New York City, assistant to President Curran of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, of which Pierre Du Pont was president until he identified himself with the Al Smith campaign last year.

Announcing that he came here to give what assistance the organization can lead in the Illinois battle, Mr. Hooke issued a statement reading in part as follows:

"I cannot see what excuse a senator can have for voting against any bill to permit a referendum by a popular vote and I predict if the bill does not pass several senators will gracefully or ungracefully retire to private life at the expiration of their present terms. The people are getting tired of the hypocrisy and corruption that have come into existence under the 18th amendment. The Anti-Saloon league, with its political persona, cannot play the bully any longer.

Killing of Mothers.

"Let the prohibition keep on killing mothers of children, as at Aurora, indicating as felons deserted wives trying to feed the mouths of little children, as in Chicago last week, and glorifying perjury, sniping, invasion of the home; in fact, anything so long as the immoral and un-Christian doctrine of prohibition is kept on the statute books. Do as you like, senators; violate every one of the ten commandments; drink all you can get, but vote dry and we are with you," says the Anti-Saloon league.

"Doesn't every decent man and woman blush with shame at the disgraceful spectacle in congress last Tuesday? Imagine from the state that sent a Lincoln, a Cannon, a Mann, a Madden, and a host of other great men to the halls of congress, witnessing one of its representatives, a 'holy bird,' defend the killing of a hard working 21 year old boy, who now appears innocent of any crime.

"His only offense, if such it be, was asking a lift from a bootlegger; he was returning to his work as a motorman in Washington after spending a few hours with his aged mother in Maryland. Suppose it were your boy."

That Anti-Saloon Gang.

"God grant that Illinois will furnish the nation with another Lincoln to lead a cause as sacred and vital to our country as he led and won."

"Slavery was a battle to give liberty to a few. The anti-prohibition fight is a battle to restore liberty to an entire nation."

"I suppose the forces of prohibition will raise the cry of nullification in their efforts to prevent a referendum. The anti-saloon gang—just as dangerous as the Capone gangs whom they brought into existence and who do not operate under the cover of piety—are the worst nullificationists. They would nullify the moral law, the teachings of Christ, the Bible; destroy virtue and substitute the reign of force and terror so long as prohibition remains. Even in this state, where the constitution requires a reappointment after every federal census, they oppose that."

Bitterly Denounces Klan.

Mr. Hooke took up the question of senate procedure with Chairman James J. Barbour of the judiciary committee, who is a dry, but who nevertheless agreed to aid a movement to get the Weber-O'Grady bill out on the floor quickly. He said he would vote to have it reported out at once without recommendation if his fellow committeemen would agree to that step.

Rep. Klux assailed the Klan bitterly and at length in calling up his measure before the house, referring to several of the crimes charged against the organization. His chief opposition came from Rep. M. H. Rice of Levidstown and Rep. Elmer J. Schnackenberg of Chicago.

Rep. Leroy M. Green said that although a Republican, he could not feel proud of last fall's Republican victories in southern states where the Klan is strong, and thereby opened the way for minority leader Igoe's assault on the alliance between the hooded ones and the dry leaguers.

"This thing [the Klan] is not dead," said Igoe.

"Intolerance does not die so easily. This organization has joined hands with all the forces of intolerance in the country. The campaign on one side last fall was fought by the Ku Klux Klan and the Anti-Saloon league as partners. The Republican party should be ashamed of its allies."

Calling Her Female Jackass.

Saying that he felt compassion for ignorant intolerants, he said he loathed and despised the intellectual intolerant such as Senator Hoffman, whom he referred to as a "silly individual" with a "disordered mind" and as "Alabama's fool." He recalled Hoffman's reference to Senator Watson of Indiana as "The finest old horse in the Klan."

"I had heard of dragons and Kleevers and wizards," he continued, "but if this is a new title in the Klan I want to nominate for the stall next to the 'old horse,' that female jackass, Mabel Willebrandt; that delightful little lady who just happened to go to a big meeting of Methodist ministers and tell them it was their duty to go out and help elect Herbert Hoover."

"This is not a political question," said Representative Frank A. McClary of Elgin, the next speaker, "and God help the party that injects religion into its politics."

Representative Wallace A. Bandy of Marion has admitted for years his membership in the Klan. When his name was called a second time he said:

Julio Also Speaks.

"I just want to say a word. I think the Ku Klux Klan will live on forever. I vote no."

Another speech came from Representative Roy Julio of Chicago.

"I, like Representative Green," he said, "am one of those Republicans who don't take particular pride in the performance of the national organization during the last campaign nor in the announced effort of the President to change the political complexion of the south. If the southern and western states are going to control the Republican party and to continue to try and force prohibition down our throats, I don't know but what I'll look for a new political home."

Representative Arthur Roe of Vandalia, Harry McCaskrin of Rock Island, and Thomas O'Grady of Chicago also spoke for the King bill.

RESCUE 3 FROM PLANE MAROONED IN FAR NORTH

(Chicago Tribune From Service.)

THE PAS, Man, April 29.—A woman, have been rescued from a small island in the bleak arctic northern Saskatchewan after marooned three days. The story of the rescue was brought here by G. A. Thompson, district manager of the Western Canada Airways, who hopped off a couple of days to search for the missing party.

Capt. H. H. Kenyon was the pilot of the cabin plane, which was downed on a small island in Crease Bay. One of the passengers was Mrs. Silven, Consolidated Smelters employee. The name of the woman is not known.

A broken cylinder forced the plane to bring his machine down on the frozen wastes. On account of the lack of communication in the north country it was not known for several days that Capt. Kenyon was missing at Rottestone. When the word was flashed to Prince Albert, Maj. Thompson winged away in search.

2 SCHOOLGIRLS USED AS DECOYS BY DRY AGENTS

Ohio Governor Will Ask Dismissal.

Columbus, O., April 30.—[Special.] Gov. Meyer V. Cooper tonight vigorously condemned the use of two 18 year old school girls in Lancaster as decoys by two state prohibition agents.

The governor indicated he will demand a thorough investigation and will seek the dismissal of the two agents in question.

They are Edward Little and John Cole, star under cover men, whose other recent activity was to entrap Mayor Peter Groh of Dover while posing as bootleggers and rum runners. Groh's dismissal and indictment followed.

Gov. Cooper declared that "the employment of minors, either boys or girls, as aids in obtaining evidence in liquor cases is unwarranted and will not be tolerated in this state as a means of apprehending liquor law violators."

Girls Testified in Court.

The use of the school girls as decoys was brought to the governor's attention when U. S. Commissioner J. W. Horner administered a scathing rebuke to Little and Cole, and dismissed the cases they brought against Harry V. Poole and Amos Frankhauser of Lancaster upon the testimony of the two girls. The men were charged with conspiracy to violate the prohibition law, and the two girls testified against them at the preliminary hearing before Horner.

The girls involved are Katherine Grunton and Carrie Walton. The former admitted she had been given a photograph for her work in the case, while the latter said she received a $35 check. Both told of drinking wine with the agents.

Warns Two Girls.

In administering the rebuke to the state agents, Commissioner Horner said: "These officers have gone beyond all propriety in taking young, innocent girls on raids and sending them to buy liquor."

"If they have to use such methods to catch bootleggers they had better let the bootleggers alone. I don't like the atmosphere pervading this case from start to finish. I don't want it in my court. If you girls value your good name you will stay away from liquor raiding parties."

Testimony had shown that the two girls were introduced to the men by a taxi driver, who found them, presumably at the agents' request, in a near by cafeteria.

"Did you know if these men were single or married?"

"I didn't ask," one of the girls replied.

"It's none of my business," the commissioner commented, "but I advise you not to go out at night and buy liquor with married men."

The Grunton girl testified that "when we got to Poole's house I was given $2 to go in and buy two half pints of whisky." She testified that she made the purchase from Poole and that Frankhauser produced the liquor from some source. Under questioning by an attorney for the two defendants she admitted having taken an automobile trip with the two prohibition agents to Athens.

FRANCE WARNED AGAINST DANGERS OF U. S. COCKTAIL

"Going to Dogs."

BY HENRY WALES.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, April 30.—A long standing campaign for conservative wine and cognac drinking in France against that social upstart, the American cocktail, received vigorous scientific support tonight when the eminent Prof. Guillaumin of the medical faculty of the University of Paris told the distinguished Academy of Medicine the horrible results of the spreading cocktail habit in the ranks of French society.

He declared that if the upper classes did not heed the warnings from himself and others the cocktail must be prohibited by law, as absinthe had been.

Denounces Gin and Whisky.

The professor said that alcoholism among the workers was decreasing but was having an alarming growth in the upper strata of society, due wholly to the poisonous mixture of American concoctions composed of the most venomous of all hard liquors, gin and whisky. He said that children, children, and men alike were beginning to show the grave effects of the adoption of the cocktail habit.

He declared that cocktails produce a variety of nervous, gastronomic, and mental diseases, and gastro-intestinal, epileptic attacks, neurasthenia, and auroreuxia. He asserted that the increasing number of automobile accidents was due to the drivers having abandoned wine and cognac and other normal drinks in France for the

Given Tryout

The aquacycle, a nautical vehicle consisting of a bicycle frame mounted on a pair of skiffs and propelled by foot pedals geared to a revolving paddle, was tried out yesterday at the Oak street beach. Edward Czapiewski, who plans a summer trip across the lake from Milwaukee to Ludington, Mich., on the craft, drove it around the placid surface of the lake behind the breakwater. The aquacycle will be on exhibit at the seventh national outdoor life exposition and motor boat show at the Coliseum from May 6 to 11.

ville American mixed drink and thereby losing their psychomotor reactions.

Children in Danger.

Prof. Guillaumin also said the habit was having an alarming growth among the youth of France and that the French children will be stunted, mentally debilitated, subnormal, and even idiots. He said that such cases already had come to his attention and were directly traceable to the vicious cocktail drinking habits of the parents.

Prof. Guillaumin, member of the Academy of Sciences, corroborated Prof. Guillaumin's statement of the danger to France and said that the danger was the greatest to France's young girls. He also backed up Prof. Guillaumin's warning that the cocktail would have to be prohibited by law.

Chicago Woman Fined $100

When Liquor Found in Car

Freeport, Ill., April 30.—(AP)—Mrs. Dorothy Johnson, 24 years old, of Chicago, was fined $100 and costs today on liquor possession charges preferred by police, who found twenty-four quarts of whisky in her car.

WHISKY ON DRY'S BREATH, ASSERTS ACCIDENT PROBER

Participants in the collision of three automobiles on Saturday night, caused by the erratic driving of Prohibition Agent Martin Fitzpatrick, stated emphatically yesterday that the dry agent was intoxicated. Sgt. James Burke of the west park police said he had smelled liquor on Fitzpatrick's breath some time after the accident.

Daniel Gowans, 45 years old, 1534 South Scoville avenue, Berwyn, who is in the Francis Willard hospital with a fractured kneecap, said he could remember nothing of the accident. Gowans came from Scotland only a few months ago. His main concern and that of his wife was payment of the hospital bill. They are in needy circumstances.

J. Shallock, 2535 South Oak Park avenue, Berwyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Russell, who live at the same address, were others involved in the accident in addition to the persons mentioned in previous reports. They declared that Fitzpatrick was "obviously drunk."

Fitzpatrick was charged with driving while intoxicated and his case will come up on May 7 before Judge Joseph Burke. He denied that he was drinking and referred to the police who, he said, would vouch for his sobriety. In retort, Sgt. Burke told of smelling whisky on the agent's breath when he investigated the accident.

Joseph Saunders, 3621 North Irving avenue, former prohibition agent, was fined $100 yesterday by Judge Joseph L. McCarthy for selling liquor. Saunders runs a soft drink parlor at 4320 Lincoln avenue. The prohibition department said Saunders was discharged five years ago.

INDICT SNOOPER IN AURORA CASE; DRY RAIDERS O. K.

De King Punished Enough, Carbury Says.

Law enforcement in Kane county was vindicated yesterday when the grand jury returned a perjury indictment against Eugene Boyd Fairchild, whose affidavit sent deputy sheriffs on the raid of the De King home at Aurora on the night of March 25, during which Joe De King was clubbed and Mrs. Lillian De King was killed.

De King was told he could consider himself lucky that he was not indicted for relating the officers who came into his home without mention or display of a search warrant and carried a half gallon of wine from his basement. For that good fortune, De King was told he could thank State's Attorney George D. Carbury, who has said all along that Deputy Sheriff Roy Smith was justified in killing Mrs. De King.

De King "Punished Enough."

The grand jury wished to indict De King, Prosecutor Carbury stated, on the theory that he should not have objected to his home being invaded. Enough votes were available for his indictment, Carbury stated, but the prosecutor, entering the grand jury room just in time, told the jurors he felt De King had been punished enough by the death of his wife.

It was revealed that the jury unanimously voted a no bill against Deputy Sheriff Smith, who had been held for manslaughter by a coroner's jury that heard testimony given publicly. The jury found no fault with the conduct of the six deputy sheriffs, who performed their raiding duty in this fashion: Three went to one door and aimed shotguns at Joe De King and his brother, Peter, a fourth being in the home drinking wine with the brothers. Smith crept up behind Joe, struck him down and then shot Mrs. De King, the other deputy throwing a tear gas bomb into the room at the same time.

Make No Written Report.

It had been reported that the jury would make a written report censuring the conduct of certain officials and Joe De King, but they did nothing but present the indictment against Fairchild and the no bills against Smith and De King. They never considered action against 12 year old Gerald De King, who shot Smith after the deputy sheriff had knocked down his father and shot his mother.

The indictment against Fairchild, who was employed by Carbury as a snoper and paid only when he reported purchasing liquor, was based on his affidavit that he bought a pint of moonshine from a woman at the De King home, whereas it was later admitted that he had merely taken the word of Philip Johnson of Batavia, who said he had bought the bottle from a man and not from a woman, and at a garage, not at the De King home.

The jury was said to have intended censuring Assistant State's Attorney Carbury, who procured the search warrant on Fairchild's affidavit, but the jurors were reported to have been appeased when Carbury announced that he would discharge his chief investigator, Walter Millar.

FREEING OF RED McLAUGHLIN IS CALLED SCANDAL

Bail Release Denounced by Crime Commission.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Sam Brown, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in life in Pontiac reformatory; Dan Henderson, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in life in the penitentiary by Judge G. Fred Bush.

Edward Miskak, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Robert E. Gentzel.

Louis Williams, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in life in the penitentiary; John Carroll, rape, sentenced to 1 year in Pontiac reformatory by Judge Harry B. Miller.

The Chicago crime commission yesterday detailed the circumstances under which Eugene (Red) McLaughlin, notorious gangster, has gained his liberty from the Joliet penitentiary on $15,000 bail. Henry Barrett Chamberlin, operating director of the commission, in a report to its president, Frank J. Loesch, described these circumstances as "scandalous."

"McLaughlin, indicted and tried for murder, gunplay, jewel robbery, ex-convict, fugitive from justice, ball jumper, and one of the most dangerous criminals in the United States, is again at liberty to menace society," said the Chamberlin letter. "He was released by order of Justice Cyrus Dietz of the Illinois Supreme court following the issuance by that jurist of a writ of error and the fixing of bail at $15,000."

Clerk Called from Home.

"It is interesting to note that the bond was presented at the clerk's office of the Supreme court at 7:30 o'clock on Saturday night, it being necessary to ask the clerk to go to his office from his home. This bond was signed by Robert E. McLaughlin (president of the Checker Cab company), a brother of the defendant, who claims to possess property of the value of $15,000 with a mortgage of $5,000; Victor Coz, who claims to own $25,000, with a mortgage of $1,500, and Jacob N. Schwartz, claiming ownership of $30,000 realty with a mortgage of not more than $12,000."

"I am unable to find any schedules in the office of the clerk of the Supreme court," Mr. Chamberlin continued, "and as far as I know the bond was accepted on affidavits only."

Jenkins McLaughlin's Lawyer.

"It is of continuing interest to know that the attorney representing Mc-

CHICAGOAN OFFERS ASSEMBLY SOLUTION OF REVENUE PROBLEM

Springfield, Ill., April 30.—(AP)—Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the Civic Federation of Chicago today made a contribution to the problem which has proven vexatious to the state administration, formulation of an amendment to the revenue article of the constitution satisfactory to everyone concerned.

The Sutherland amendment, which was turned over to Roger Little, chairman of a subcommittee considering the revenue amendment, will probably be discussed at a meeting of the subcommittee tomorrow, Little said.

The principal change is the provision under which counties would receive a share of any new form of taxation voted by the assembly, unless the assembly voted by a two-thirds majority to give it all to the state.

If an income tax were enacted, counties would receive a fair share of the tax.

This is intended to satisfy Cook county, which objects to unreasonable taxation for state purposes, and also those who believe that two-thirds vote restriction should be left out.

Laughlin in this matter is Chauncey Jenkins of Springfield, former director of public welfare during the administration of Gov. Small and concerning whom the executive committee of the Chicago crime commission said in a statement to the governor in 1928 that he was unfit for his position and that he had forfeited the confidence of the public and should be removed.

"Of further interest is the fact that the papers were rushed through and McLaughlin released from the penitentiary at about 8 o'clock Sunday morning."

Denied Bail Twice by Court.

"It is difficult for me to understand why this procedure should have been staged in Springfield at a time when the chief justice of the court was in Chicago where the trial occurred and who was entirely cognizant of all of the circumstances pertaining to this matter, and after the Supreme court had twice denied bail to McLaughlin."

McLaughlin was received at the penitentiary on June 22, 1928, having been sentenced for a term of one to fourteen years for assault with intent to commit robbery, a crime committed on March 22, 1928. The history of the case is a record of bond forfeitures, judgments, vacation of judgments, bombing of a juror's home, new bail, evasion of arrest, perjury, jury tampering, and intimidation.

On June 15, 1928, the Supreme court refused to release McLaughlin on bail pending a supersedeas and on June 18 it refused to reconsider its decision. Judge John McGoorty raised McLaughlin's bond from $5,000 to $100,000.

COPELAND WET TAMMANY MAN, METHODIST REPLY

Dr. Wilson Denies Church Maintains Lobby.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., April 30.—(Special.)—Buttonholing members of congress in capitol corridors and promoting or opposing pending legislation is not lobbying, according to Dr. Clarence True Wilson, general secretary of the Methodist board of temperance, prohibition, and public morals.

Stung by the charge of Senator R. S. Copeland (Dem., N. Y.), a Methodist himself, that the Methodist church board seeks to dictate legislation, Dr. Wilson replied today in an open letter to the senator defending the board's political activities as within the constitutional rights of a citizen.

Would Talk with Senators.

The letter denied that the board or any of its members or employees engages in "lobbying," but admits that "if we are vitally interested in any matter, we would not hesitate to give public expression to it in the press or platform, and to talk with any senator where our presence is welcome."

The letter continued that the board in addition to its "denominational work in the training of the young people of our own church," also engages in "an educational and agitational work."

Questions His Methodism.

In the letter Dr. Wilson implied by his thrusts at Senator Copeland that a good Methodist may not believe in modification or repeal of prohibition.

"I doubt," said Dr. Wilson, "if the Defeated—Flagg bill to prohibit return of bakery goods and indicate its intention to defeat Marks bill for state police commission for Chicago.

New bills—By Mendel, to regulate blasting in quarries; by Mendel, to permit Chicago west park commissioners to build elevated highway; by Reynolds, to provide for lighting of state highways; by Bohrer, to amend law concerning cold storage of foods.

HOUSE.

Representative Rena Elrod presided in order to permit Speaker Shanahan, convalescing from severe illness, to rest in his office.

Passed—King bill to force Ku Klux Klan to file its constitution, by-laws and rosters with secretary of state.

Passed—Green bill to repeal Lon Small immunity amendment to quo warranto act passed in 1927, vote 109 to 6.

Passed—Cheney bill to create commission to revise election laws.

Municipalities committee, after voting down several amendments considering unfriendly, recommended passage of six Chicago transit bills without dissenting vote.

Elections committee recommended Thon bill to eliminate party circles, substituting Massachusetts ballot plan, vote 8 to 7.

Senator is good enough Methodist to give any kind of advice to our board, or to lead any kind of revolution within the Methodist Episcopal church. Our church is dry and he is wet; the Methodist church stands back of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act and back of President Wilson's program for its enforcement. Senator Copeland stands with Tammany Hall on all these matters."

HOUSE SANITARY QUIZZERS REACH 7 WITH WRITS

(BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.)

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.] Springfield, Ill., April 30.—(Special.)—After quizzing seven house members subpoenaed after they failed to appear on invitation, the House committee late today wound up its investigation of the scandal of house members on the sanitary district payroll.

The members of the committee, it was reported, expect to meet tomorrow to start drafting recommendations as to legislation governing double payrollers in the future. The recommendations are to go to the house before the session closes.

For the last three weeks the committee, behind closed doors, has been questioning the house members about their drainage board connections. Most of them appeared voluntarily. Those subpoenaed today were James P. Boyle, John S. Clark, William H. Martin, T. J. O'Brien, William V. Pacelli, Calvin T. Weeks, and Edward M. Overland.

Representative Pacelli is said to have admitted that he drew $300 a month for three months as a "labor overhauler," a job obtained for him by a police captain. His job, he said, was to watch workmen unload cinders and bricks.

One of the biggest rows in this session is brewing over a bill for the regulation of conditional sales, more commonly known as installment sales.

In the 1927 session a similar bill disappeared twice, the second time on the closing night of the session when it was charged that it had been stolen by a member of the assembly to prevent its enactment into law.

The senate today voted, 28 to 3, to raise the tax levy on bus operators to $150 a hundred pounds operating in Illinois. It also favors a tax on trailers and semi-trailers.

"Railroads," senator Cuthbertson said, "pay a large share of the school taxes; buses pay nothing and tear up our roads."

been made to obtain enabling legislation for Chicago to solve its transit problem," Mr. Shanahan said. "Each time it has been defeated because of suspicion and fear that only one interest was being served. Now the companies and the city have gotten together with the aid of a citizens' committee and it appears that a solution is in sight. This merely is enabling legislation to permit the city to work out its own salvation. I recommend it for your favorable consideration."

Holds Five Bills Valid.

Prior to the committee meeting Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom rendered a written opinion holding that five of the six agreed bills are clearly constitutional. Of the sixth, house bill 510, the transit commission bill, he said, "I have had some personal doubts as to the constitutionality of house bill 510, but in view of the fact that the opinion of some of the ablest lawyers of the state, with whom I have discussed the bill, supports its constitutionality, I now am convinced that the act contains no such serious defect as to warrant its rejection on the ground of lack of constitutionality, and as one of the group of agreed bills, I believe it should be passed and the final test of its constitutionality left to the courts for determination."

JUDGE ATTACKS SCHOOL BOARD; FREES MOTHER

Raps 'Careless Methods' in Jazz Age Case.

A denunciation of "the careless methods of the school board in keeping records and preparing cases" came from Judge Max Luster at the end of a three hour trial yesterday of Mrs. Jane Lister, 5544 Luffin street, mother of 11 year old Coletta, who was a member of a drinking party which ended in the death of one of the group in an automobile accident.

Mrs. Lister, charged with contributing to her daughter's truancy from the Libbey school, was dismissed "because of lack of evidence." The official jury of twelve prominent women asked to sit at the trial when it was started in Judge Alfred J. Dickson's court on April 23 was an odd number, but considered considerably by the Lister attorneys obtained a change of venue to Judge Luster's court, where the women were not invited to occupy the jury box.

Has No Copy of Letter.
Judge Luster's criticism of the school board came after the prosecuting attorney had failed to produce a copy of the "final truancy warning" issued to Mrs. Lister on March 22 and admitted that the board did not keep such records.

"Would you send a letter out of your office without keeping a copy?" Judge Luster demanded of Frank Frank, assistant city attorney. "What are you 1,000 such notices issued in a year? The board should keep them. Otherwise it can't expect to prosecute intelligently."

When the bill of information was turned over to the court by W. D. Dickson, attorney for the board of education, and was found to have been stamped erroneously with the date "1932," Judge Luster again criticized the prosecuting attorneys for carelessness.

Mrs. Mary Ryan, 828 West Garfield boulevard, truant officer, testified that she visited the Lister home in September, 1937, when Coletta failed to attend school regularly, and that Mrs. Lister was under the influence of John Owen, Mrs. Lister's attorney, objected, and Judge Luster sustained her objection.

Raps Delay in Prosecuting.

"I have no fault to find with the work of the board of education, and I have only commendation for the group of intelligent people who fill this courtroom to see justice meted out after the source of the delinquency is located," he said. "But how are we going to learn it? You have not brought a case. Your chief evidence goes back to 1927. If your truant officers discovered conditions of this mother and of the home unsuitable to the child in 1927, why wait until now, for a spectacular shrinking party, to charge?"

Truant officer, served the "final warning" to Mrs. Lister, Miss Elizabeth Lister, principal of the Libbey school, and Mary Maddox, principal of the former principal

TORCH

Mrs. Dorothy Heinzelman Peacock, whose husband has confessed killing her and burning her body near Greenburg, N.Y.

Husband Admits Crime;
Called His Home 'Dump'

New York, April 30.—(Special.)—Earl Francis Peacock, 21 year old radio repair man, today confessed he killed his wife, Dorothy Heinzelman Peacock, on their first wedding anniversary early last Monday, a week, and five days later tried to burn her body under an old apple tree near the lonely Ardsley road, in Westchester, after pouring kerosene on it. Detectives showed him the body, where it was discovered three days ago.

They questioned him at White Plains, in the apartment, where he used to live and where his wife left him after three weeks of marriage.

First Sleep in 36 Hours.
Then policemen led him to a cell in the Mount Vernon police headquarters, charged with murder in the first degree. District Attorney Frank H. Coyle announced that "he's confessed—full and complete confession. The whole thing's cleared up."

Medical Examiner Amos O. Squire immediately opened a formal inquest and held Peacock without bail.

His confession was brief, and he professed his love for his wife and his pain because she left him. Then he fell asleep, his first rest for more than thirty hours.

He was friendly with his wife, and when she went with him from her own apartment in New York to the Mount Vernon home she left, the night of the slaying, she called it "the same old dump," he asserted. "I picked up a weight," said Peacock, "and hit her on the head."

Grappling for Pistol.

She fell and he reached for the pistol that was kept in the apartment. She rose again and they struggled for it. He knocked her down and choked her with his hand.

He drove to the Edwards estate and hid the body under the apple tree, in a clump of bushes, well off the road.

Five days later he sprinkled the fuel on the body and lighted the pyre. Then he went back to his wife's parents' home and slept for several hours.

"I loved her, and don't let there be any mistake about that," his confession said.

Girl Friend in Custody.

That there may be more behind the story than Peacock has admitted was indicated when, two hours after he had been lodged in jail, New York detectives took another prisoner into custody.

She is Miss Frances Newman, 22, a close friend, so the police said, of the young radio repair man.

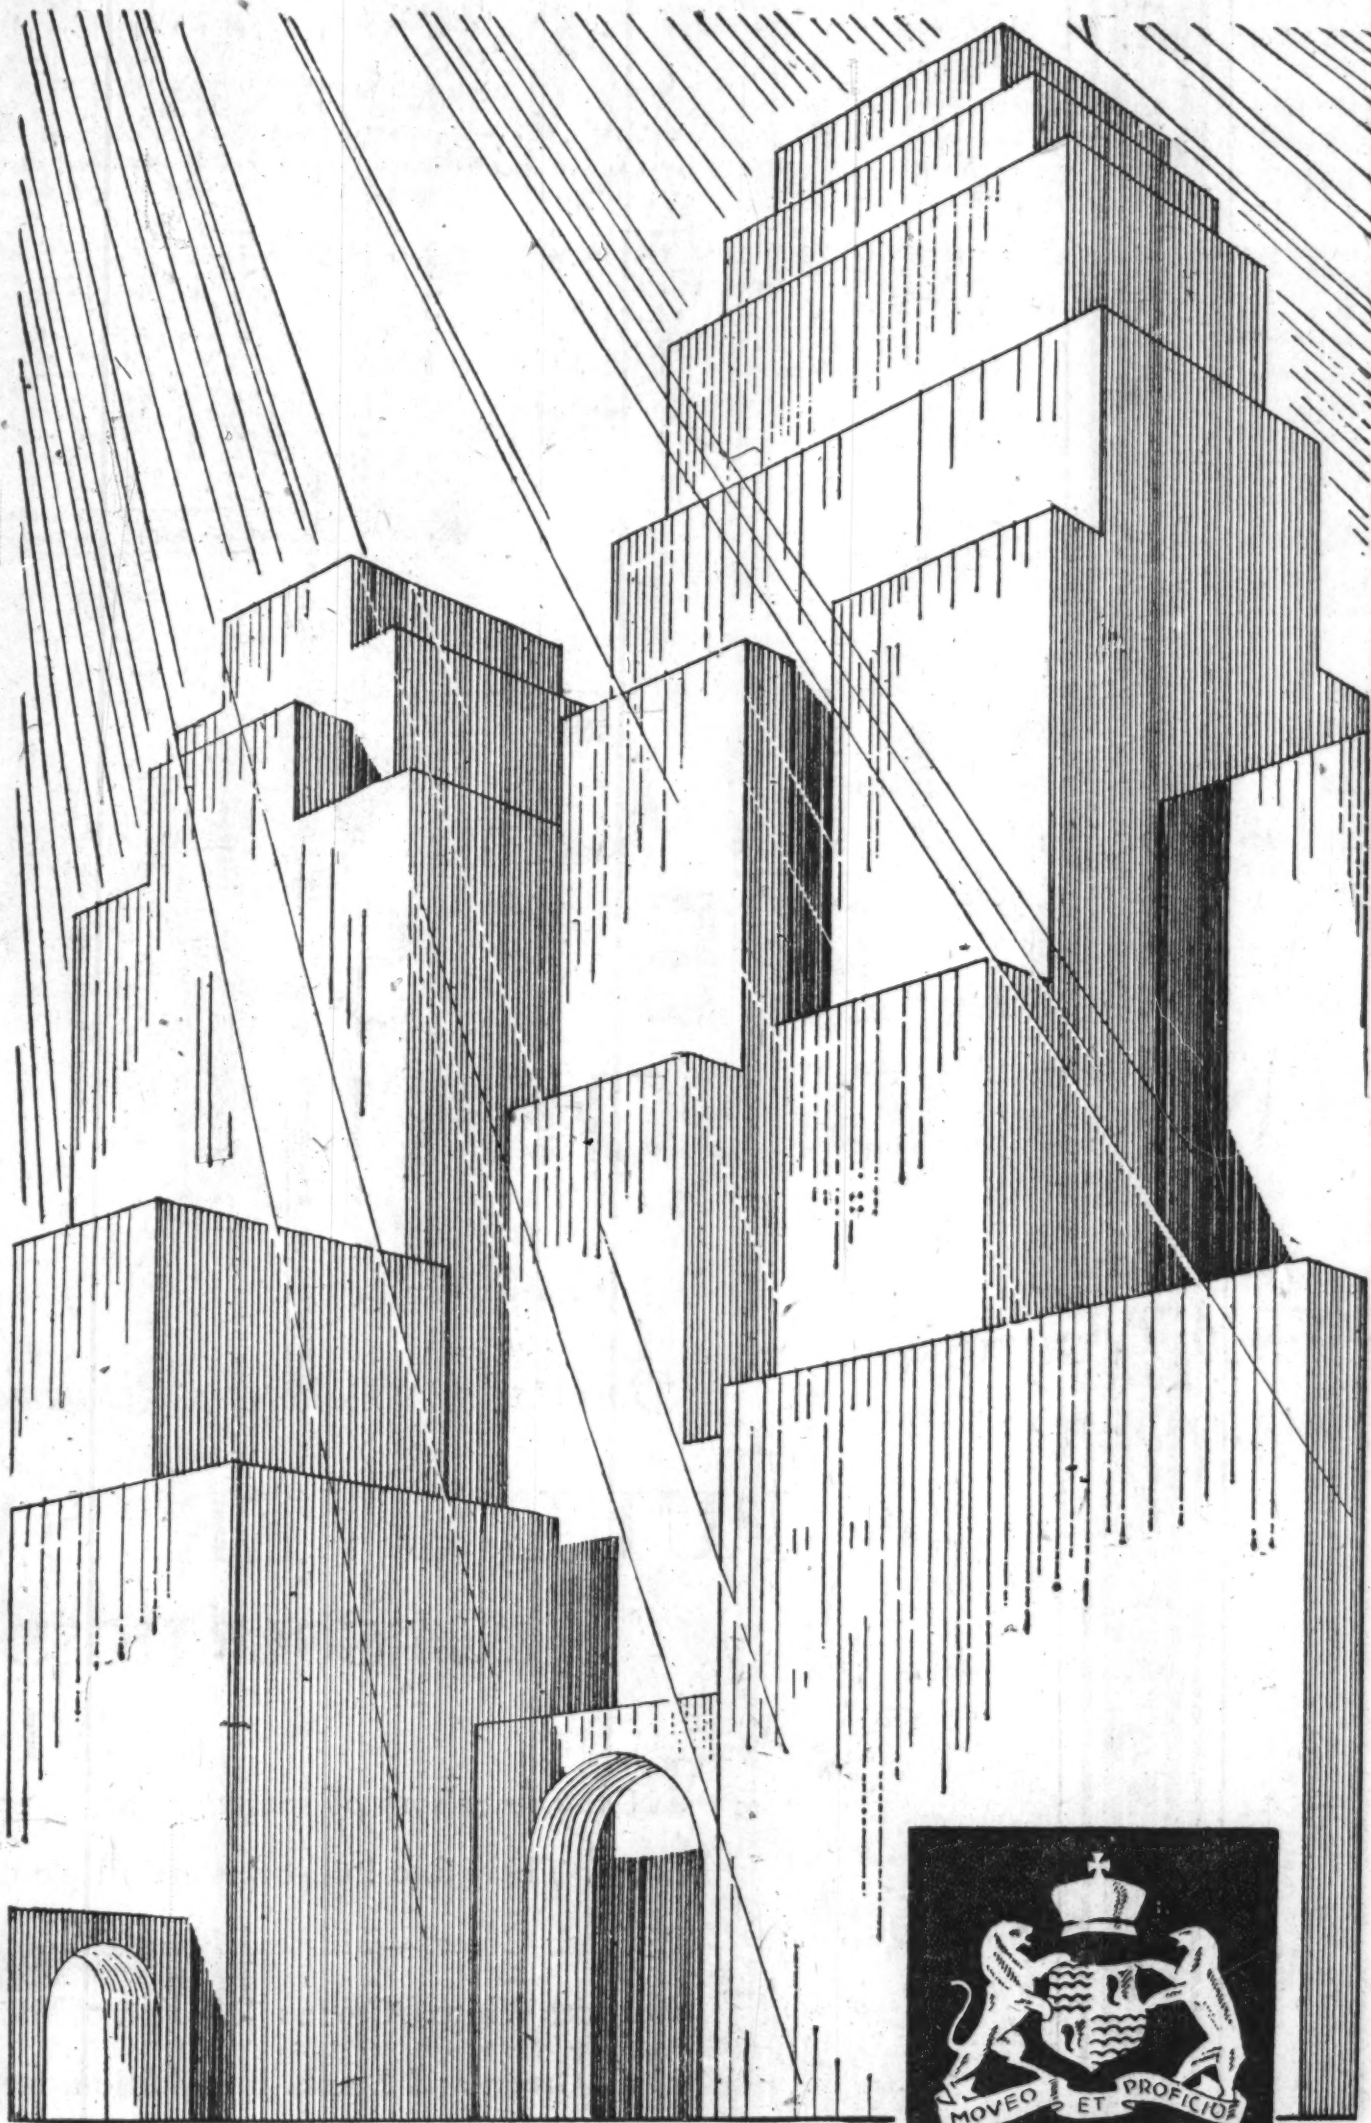

PLANS FOR NORTH RIVER DRIVE GET COMMISSION O.K.

Formal approval was given yesterday by the Chicago Plan commission to the North River drive project. At a meeting of the commission, over which James Simpson presided, a resolution was adopted to the effect that the public interest will be served through adoption of the plan which is now certain to be carried out.

This will provide a bridge over the river at Wabash avenue, connecting with an elevated drive which will join the upper level of Michigan boulevard both at Austin avenue and at Illinois street. This elevated section will go north in Rush street to Illinois street, and another section will turn north-west to Cass street on a viaduct over the railroad tracks and will descend to grade at Kinzie and Cass streets.

It was said there may be a slight change but that bids for the work will be asked within thirty days and work will start soon afterward.

BETTER TASTE EXPRESSED WITH BETTER VALUE

Pioneers of Better Taste

For fifty-six years John T. Shayne and Company have pioneered the idea of better taste in merchandise. And today people are saying that Shayne's are pioneers of better value, too.

This is not a bewilderingly big store, but its prestige makes it of sufficient importance to command preference in the fine marts of the world. You can expect to find at Shayne's, therefore, only merchandise which is highly desirable.

It is because we are able to offer this ideal combination of "better taste, expressed with better value" that Shayne's will some day be a larger store. But it will never shed those qualities which are so precious to its own.

POWER COMPANY STOCKHOLDER IN 13 NEWSPAPERS

Official Asserts Editorial Policy Isn't Involved.

Washington, D. C., April 30.—(AP)—Emphasizing that no efforts to influence editorial policies have been made, Archibald R. Graustein of Boston, president of the International Paper and Power company, testified before the federal trade commission today that his company and its affiliated concerns had purchased stock in thirteen papers in various sections of the country.

Appearing as a witness at the commission's investigation of the recent purchase by his company of stock of the Boston Herald and the Traveler, Graustein declared the company's stock holdings in newspapers were purchased to obtain outlets for its newspaper products. The International Paper company is a subsidiary of the International Paper and Power company.

Not Power Investment.
Mr. Graustein said the stock holdings in the newspapers were in no way associated with the hydro-electric and power project of the paper and power company and its affiliated concerns.

"There is not a case of a newspaper where we have the control," he said, "and where the control is not in other hands."

"I have never met an editor of any of the papers," he declared. "We have nothing to do and do not want to have anything to do with news and editorial policies. The only contact we have is with the newspapers' business offices. We know there is the danger of suspicion of our controlling editorial policy and we feel we must keep one hundred per cent clear of influencing news and editorial policies."

Lists Newspaper Holdings.

An exhibit placed in the record cited the stock holdings in newspapers of the paper and power company and its subsidiaries as follows:

Chicago Daily News, $250,000 in preferred stock and 5,000 shares of common stock.

Chicago Journal, $1,000,000 of debentures and $600,000 of preferred stock of the Bryan-Thomson Newspapers, Incorporated, and 10,000 shares of the common stock of the Chicago Journal. (The Bryan-Thomson Newspapers, Inc., also owns the Tampa, Fla., Tribune and the Greensboro, N. C., Record.)

The Albany, N. Y., Knickerbocker Press and the Albany Evening News, $450,000 preferred stock and 5,000 common stock shares.

Boston Herald and the Traveler, 10,245 shares of common stock purchased at $525 per share.

Brooklyn Daily Eagle, $1,954,500 in notes and 400 shares of common stock.

Augusta, Ga., Chronicle, Columbia, S. C., Record, and Spartanburg, S. C., Herald-Journal, through Hall & Lavare, $555,000 in notes secured by the stock of these newspapers.

A contingent interest in the Ithaca, N. Y., Journal-News, $300,000 in notes.

Never Sought Editorial Voice.

Graustein testified that his company never had sought the control of the Boston Herald and the Traveler, although it had purchased fifty per cent of the stock. At the time of the purchase, he said, the company created a voting trust which effectively prevents it from exercising its voting rights of stock for the control of the publishing company.

In a statement issued following the trade commission's hearing, Graustein said that the interest purchased by the International Paper company in the Boston Herald and the Traveler was to remedy the heavy decline in the newspaper business which had resulted in a serious curtailment in the company's production. By the stock purchase the paper company, he added, "secured a very large customer at a time when it was in very serious need of business."

"At the outset of the negotiations," he continued, "it was immediately agreed both that the Herald did not want the International to have any say about the news or editorial policy and that the International did not want to have any say on either point."

APRIL AUTO TOLL SETS NEW MARK; 79 LIVES TAKEN

But Total of 1929 Is Lower than 1928.

Despite a record number of fatalities during April, Cook county's 1929 motor toll is still 15 per cent behind that for the corresponding period of last year, Coroner Herman N. Bundesen announced yesterday. The 1929 records show 236 deaths as against 279 in 1928.

The statistics compiled by the coroner's office for 1929 are taken from the investigation of auto deaths made at his order. Those for 1928 are based on the number of inquests which were closed in the period, the system then employed.

April Is Record Month.

Monthly statistics prepared by Coroner Bundesen are as follows:

January	81	66
February	59	51
March	79	48
April	60	79

Total 279 204

Three deaths yesterday raised the 1929 total to 236. The victims:

Jean Maumann, 7 year old daughter of Daniel L. Maumann, an industrial engineer, living at 211 Fifth avenue, Wilmette. Fatally injured when struck by an automobile near her home. The driver of the car, Miss Gertrude Hammes, 17 year old student at the Marywood School for Girls in Evanston, told Wilmette police that the little girl ran into the path of her automobile from behind a car parked at the curb. She was held pending the inquest today.

John Hawkins, 26 years old, 1533 West 63d street. Died in the Presbyterian hospital of injuries received when the auto which he was driving crashed into another driven by John Demick, 3550 South Park way, three weeks ago.

Miles Hendrickson, 20 years old, 6807 South Hermitage avenue. Died in the Auburn Park hospital of injuries received two weeks ago when he was struck by a truck driven by Leslie Kidd, 6737 South Lincoln street, at Wentworth avenue and 68th street.

WALDORF TO BID SOCIETY GOOD-BY AT BALL TONIGHT

Glasses to Clink No More in Famous Hostelry.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
New York, April 30.—(Special.)—The Waldorf-Astoria, with lights blazing in its ballroom, where Ward McAllister once ruled New York's Four Hundred, will pass into oblivion tomorrow night. The famous hostelry, which has been the home of kings and emperors, presidents and press agents, and which once upon a time in the naive decade was the center of this city's social life, is dying with a gesture as splendid as any in the Victorian past.

Tomorrow all will be festivity, glasses will clink, gray haired waiters will bow as they bowed the night the Roaring Twenties made what was considered whoopee in the nineties. It will be a party, old style. From lunch time on, through a Waldorf banquet—they call them dinners now—and an evening supper, with thousands of reservations from the social prominent, the hotel will be given over to its old time friends. The receipts will go to a threefold charity.

Register Is Closed.

While tomorrow will be a day of festivity, today was moving day. All day long and through the evening hundreds of sightseers walked through the lobbies of the old hotel, paying a last farewell. This was the last business day.

Guests and strollers in the lobbies were reminiscent this afternoon. Some spoke as people do at fine funerals. Others were there to snatch or buy a souvenir, for a few bits of bric-a-brac are being sold before the official auction sale begins at 10 a. m. tomorrow. The property of the famous old hotel, from bedroom suit and historic oil paintings down to the last crested spoon, will go under the auctioneer's hammer.

In preparation for the sale, which begins in the roof garden and will continue down to the basement, the rooms on the top floor already have been dismantled and auction tags pinned on the furnishings.

Even the very rich who long have made their home in the Waldorf are packing up their belongings this afternoon just as any flat dweller does when the wrecking man calls. Society and the new rich were watching the possessions being carted into moving vans parked side by side.

Among Those Ousted.

Clad in a long black coat right out of the nineteenth century and wearing a dry muff, J. H. Gilpatrick moved over to the St. Regis. She has lived at the Waldorf for 26 years. Harry Brown, the man who made a fortune out of the hot dog concession at Old Madison Square Garden, was another long time guest hunting a new home. Old E. H. R. Green, the son of Hetty Green, who owns vast holdings in virtually every state, was leaving the Waldorf after 12 years.

Mrs. J. Stuart White, who occupied the "royal suite" for 15 years, departed several days ago. She took her rug and priceless tapestries and the carved iron gate with the two lanterns that burn night and day. The lanterns still are gleaming in her new home for they were lighted in memory of her husband who died when the "Thank you" went down.

Employers to Benefit.

The gross proceeds of tomorrow's parties will pay for two years' insurance policies for a thousand men and women working in the Waldorf. In addition the receipts will provide for cash gifts to these same workers ranging from $25 to $100. The remainder of the proceeds will be distributed equally among those whose pay is less than $100 per month.

The auction sale by the Wise Auction company will last at least 21 days, according to hotel officials. It will exceed by 12 days the longest auction ever held in New York, as there are more than 20,000 lots to be sold, and the total appraisal value is $2,500,000.

The rugs in the "president's room," the curtains remaining in the "royal suite," and every piece of furniture having historic significance, are being eagerly sought. One woman came a thousand miles to make first claim on a bathroom mat with the Waldorf lettering on it. She wanted a certain mat and got it.

MUSICIANS' CHIEF SEEKS $100,000 IN SLANDER SUIT

James C. Petrillo, president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians, yesterday filed a $100,000 slander suit against Maurice O. Wells, owner of the Adams theater, 20 East Adams street, where a mechanical organ was destroyed by armed men on April 21. The suit was filed in the Circuit court by Attorney David Katz.

Wells had intimated that the federation was responsible for sending armed incendiaries to demolish the organ and had also claimed that the organization was guilty of throwing stench bombs in the theater. He had maintained that these vandalistic acts were done because he failed to employ a member of the federation.

Denies Wells' Allegations.

Petrillo, who denied the allegations, said he brought the suit in resentment of these implications. He denounced Wells as attempting to bring discredit on the musicians' federation.

"I talked to Wells about six weeks ago," Petrillo said yesterday. "At that time I asked him to live up to the agreement between the federation and theater owners, which provides that any mechanical instrument in a theater must be operated by a member of the union. He agreed to conform to the contract."

Union Operator Hired.

"He stopped violating the ruling and hired a union operator for the instrument. After that we had no disagreement. The fact that the organ was destroyed after he conformed to the agreement is conclusive evidence that the outrage was not perpetrated by the organization of musicians."

DEBATE NATURE OF MELLON'S TRIP INTO CANADA

Senate Group May Vote on Report Today.

Washington, D. C., April 30.—(AP)—Attention of the senate judiciary committee today was focused on a visit of Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon to Canada in 1935, especially as to whether it was in the interest of his stock holdings in the Aluminum Company of America.

The committee has been considering the report prepared by Chairman George W. Norris finding the treasury secretary to be holding office illegally, but no decision was reached. An effort for a vote may be made at a meeting called for tomorrow.

Seeking approval of the Norris report, Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem., Mont.) continued his discussion of a deposition given by Mr. Mellon in an old law suit which disclosed the Canadian visit.

Holds It Business Trip.

The Montanan contended Mellon's Canadian visit showed he was interested in carrying on business.

The Norris report declares that the treasury secretary, as a stockholder in various enterprises, has violated a hundred year old statute forbidding the head of the treasury department to be interested in carrying on trade or commerce.

Some members of the committee want an inquiry to be made into the Mellon visit to Canada, where the Aluminum company had taken over a lower development from the Duke to-lace interests.

Say It Involved Settlement.

Friends of the secretary argued today that his Canadian visit was in the interest of settling a point about distribution of stock in the new concern between the Duke company and the Aluminum company. They contended he therefore was interested only as a stockholder.

After the Aluminum company took over the Canadian power plant of the Duke interests, it was agreed that the stock distribution of the new enterprise should be made on a basis of eight-ninths to the Aluminum stockholders and one-ninth to the Duke stockholders.

The deposition of Mr. Mellon was given to attorneys for a party by the name of Haskell, who sued the Duke and Aluminum companies for violation of the anti-trust laws.

Close Vote Expected.

There is only a casual reference in it to the Canadian visit and Senator Walsh regards this phase of the Mellon case as "vague."

The secretary's friends are about to open their argument and there is every indication of a close division with the lineup on the Norris report in doubt.

It is certain, however, that the report of Senator Norris will be laid before the senate either as a majority or minority report, thus forcing senate action on it.

SENATORS DELAY INDORSEMENT OF EX-GOV. COLQUITT

Washington, D. C., April 30.—(AP)—Nominations of President Hoover to fill the two vacancies on the radio commission—Charles McK. Saltman of Iowa and William D. L. Starbuck of Connecticut—were approved today by the senate interstate commerce committee and sent to the senate.

The committee failed, however, to decide on the nomination of O. B. Colquitt, former Texas governor, as a member of the railway board of mediation, and another meeting will be held later in the week for him.

Mr. Colquitt was questioned about testimony published in an old law suit to the effect that the Texas Brewers association had discussed with him a loan of $25,000 at the time Colquitt was running for the senate in 1916.

Colquitt denied that he had received the loan, denied the testimony, and denied that he made arrangements for receipt of the loan. He said the brewers had opposed him for the senate. He said that after the senate race, which he lost, he did borrow money from a Col. Hamilton who was connected with a Houston brewery.

A sharp exchange developed in the committee when Senator Wagner (Dem., N. Y.) asked the former Democratic governor if his activity in behalf of Herbert Hoover in the last campaign influenced his appointment. "I suppose that helped," said Colquitt.

testimony, and was refusing to tell the truth about the men to whom he sold machine guns.

The dealer gave a list of his sales, claiming they were all he had made, and then, when pressed by the corner, admitted other machine gun deals. He has sold twenty Thompson machine guns and twelve German machine guns in recent years, and Dr. Bundesen said there were few instances in which the buyer was one to whom such weapons could be sold for any legitimate purpose.

"Miami Man" Buys Arsenal.

A young arsenal was sold by Von Frantzius, he admitted, to a man who simply appeared at the store and said he was "Mr. O'Brien of Miami, Fla." Miami is recalled as the home of Al Capone, notorious gang leader. "Mr. O'Brien walked away with a Thompson machine gun, a Colt automatic, a Smith & Wesson revolver, a riot gun, a shot gun and 350 .45 caliber cartridges.

Another machine gun went to an unnamed customer brought to the store by Sam Scaramuzzo, friend of Sam Genna and a gunsmith at 803 South Halsted street, in the valley.

Von Frantzius admitted that he permitted Thompson to act as a salesman for him, selling machine guns, and that he sold them to the ex-convict wholesale, so that Thompson would get a commission. He asserted that Thompson had come to him claiming he had been sent by Chief of Police William O. Freeman of Evanston.

Last night Chief Freeman said he had never heard of Thompson.

"Von Frantzius telephoned me one day," said Freeman, "that one Thompson had used my name. I said, 'Why didn't you call me up?' Then I asked Von Frantzius if Thompson had a letter from me. He said he had not.

"Apparently Von Frantzius took the word of a man he did not know and I'd never heard of."

Hafia Concern Gets One.

Officials of Von Lengerke & Antoine, another sporting goods firm, also gave testimony indicating the promiscuous sale of machine guns. One was sold to the Haber Dye and Stamping company, 864 West North avenue, at a time when Titus Hafia, former alderman, was president. Present officials declared they had no records of the purchase.

James J. Reynolds, secretary of Von Lengerke & Antoine, testified that three machine guns were sold to the Hawthorne Kennel club, owned by Al Capone, and that the guns were delivered through Lieut. Nicholas Mongriog of the Chicago police department. Mongriog was called as a witness, and asserted he did not know that the package contained machine guns.

Edward O'Hara, president of the kennel club, offered to turn over the three machine guns, and another which he said he bought direct from the company, to the coroner for examination by Maj. Calvin H. Goddard, firearms expert.

Reynolds' testimony also revealed that a machine gun has been delivered to one Sing Loo, a Chinese with a shop on 31st street near Wentworth.

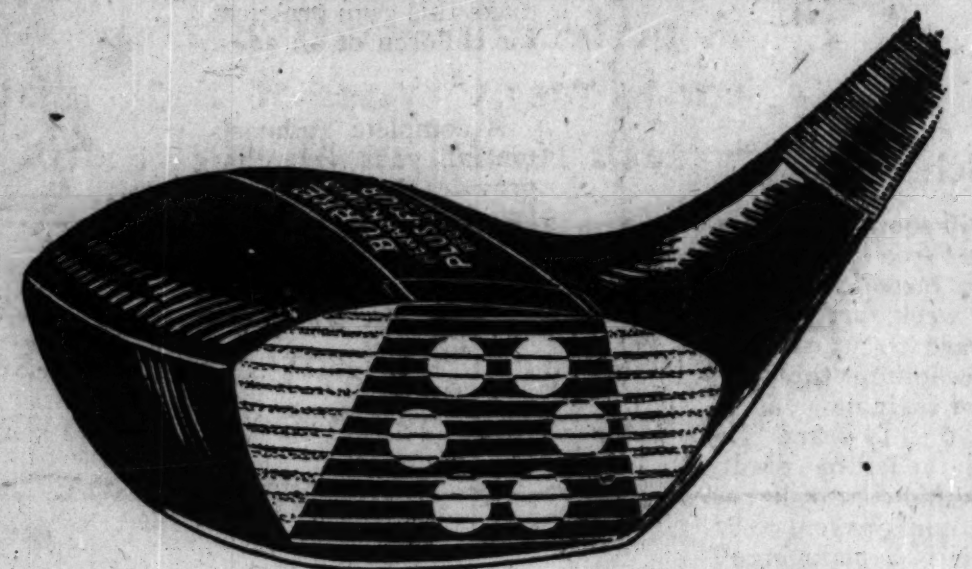

RETURN SUICIDE VERDICT.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday at the inquest into the death of Evelyn Barnes, 21 years old, who was found shot to death in her room at 8033 Dressel boulevard several days ago.

SENATE VOTES AMENDMENT TO DEBENTURE PLAN

Watson Predicts Doom of Bounty, Though.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., April 30.—(Special.)—Without record vote the senate today approved the Norris amendment to the export debenture provision of the McNary farm relief bill. The amendment is designed to prevent overproduction by reducing debenture rates as production increases. Senator Charles L. McNary (Rep., Ore.), chairman of the committee on agriculture, supported the Norris amendment, announcing that he did so to make the scheme less obnoxious. He said he would vote later to eliminate the entire debenture provision. The approval of the Norris amendment thus did not have any special significance as forecasting final action on the debenture provision.

Remove Principal Objection.
Senator George W. Norris (Rep., Neb.) in advocating his amendment said that by tending to discourage overproduction it would remove one of the principal objections made against the debenture scheme by President Hoover. Under the terms of his amendment the bounty on the exportation of farm products will remain at the rate of one-half of the tariff duty if production is increased by less than 20 per cent.

If production increases more than 20 per cent but less than 40 per cent the debenture rate shall be reduced by 20 per cent. If production is increased between 40 and 60 per cent the debenture rate shall be reduced by 50 per cent. For an increased production of from 60 to 80 per cent, the debenture rate shall be cut by 75 per cent. An increase in production of 80 per cent or more will mean a 99 per cent cut in the debenture rate.

Senator James E. Watson (Rep., Ind.), who has offered an amendment to eliminate the entire debenture provision, predicted a favorable vote upon it on Thursday with final passage of the bill on Friday.

Allen Gives Maiden Speech.
President Hoover's name figured prominently in the debate on the bill. Senator Henry Allen (Rep., Kas.), making his first speech in the senate, defended the President from the charge by Senator S. W. Brookhart (Rep., Ia.) that he has failed to carry out his campaign promises to agriculture. Senator Allen asserted that the bill, as passed by the house, is exactly in accord with the President's campaign pledge.

Senator Brookhart reiterated his charge against President Hoover, declaring that the President had stated in his acceptance speech that he "had no patience with those unwilling to spend a few hundred million dollars for the farmer."

"This bill doesn't spend one dollar for the farmer," said Senator Brookhart. "It merely provides for loans which are supposed to be paid back. There is no provision for the meeting of marketing losses by the government."

Sheppard Assails Hoover.
Senator Morris Sheppard (Dem., Tex.), assailed President Hoover in a speech pointing out alleged shortcomings of the Republican party and achievements of the Democratic party. His remarks caused Senator Arthur Robinson (Rep., Ind.), to challenge him to show a single statement by President Hoover which is inconsistent with the bill as passed by the house. Senator Sheppard replied by insisting that whereas Mr. Hoover had promised to set up machinery with adequate funds to meet the farm situation, the present bill failed to do so. Senator Peter Norbeck (Rep., S. D.) took exception to a statement by Senator Allen that the Canadian wheat pool had raised the price of wheat to farmers from five to 30 cents per bushel. Senator Norbeck said that the head of the pool in testimony before the senate committee had failed to make any such claim.

GETS APOLOGY

Insists Party Meet Pledges.
Senator Allen in his speech said that at no time during the campaign had Mr. Hoover or other party leaders given encouragement to the debenture plan. He asserted that the bill as passed by the house and also the main features of the McNary bill represent complete fulfillment of the party's pledges.

"We have heard the sincerity of the present effort questioned on this floor," said Senator Allen. "At no time since the Kansas City convention—throughout the entire presidential campaign up until this hour—has any leader of the Republican party, or the President of the United States uttered a single declaration that would justify any man to question the sincerity of the logic of this bill, or to express himself as puzzled that the bill should have taken the inevitable course it has."

The senate committee on agriculture during the day voted to make public the testimony given by experts of the department of agriculture with reference to the debenture plan. Some of the members of the committee construed the testimony which was given by Dr. Eric Englund and Dr. O. C. Stine as favorable to the scheme.

STIMSON PENS AN APOLOGY TO BELGIAN ENVOY

Regrets 'Discourtesy' by Washington Paper.

Washington, D. C., April 30.—(AP)—Social and diplomatic circles of the capital have been stirring since the publication by the Washington Post of reports that recall of the Belgian, French, and Italian ambassadors was imminent, and Ambassador de Ligne of Belgium today received a letter from Secretary Stimson expressing "sincere regret for the editorial discourtesy which you received on Thursday morning from one of the newspapers of this city."

The letter from the state department head reached Prince de Ligne upon his return from a trip to New York. He will call on Secretary Stimson tomorrow and express his appreciation for the sentiments contained in the communication. Calls Him High Hat.

Last Thursday morning, the Washington Post said: "Prince de Ligne, much in demand in Washington's smart official and diplomatic life, has not been seen recently enough concluding statesmanlike negotiations for his government, it is understood. Tall, distinguished, invariably well groomed and polished, the Belgian diplomat is nevertheless regarded by some of the leaders of his government as what might be termed in America 'high hat'."

After expressing his regret to Prince de Ligne, Secretary Stimson said he deemed it proper "to make record of the fact that neither I nor my department countenances in any manner or degree the unfounded criticism to which you have been subjected."

Most Satisfactory.
"On the contrary," Mr. Stimson continued, "the relation of your embassy with the state department has been in every way most satisfactory and agreeable and I deplore the fact that a respected envoy to our government should have suffered such a breach in the hospitality which he deserved."

Officials at the embassy said that many Americans had called or written to express their esteem for the ambassador. The French embassy formally denied reports that French Ambassador Claudel is to be recalled.

ABE'S 230 POUNDS PROVE HANDICAP, BUT SAVE HIS LIFE

Abe Axelrod, who is 32 years old, weighs 230 pounds. Last night he tried to end his life by jumping into the river beside the new opera building at Madison street. Capt. Paul Rasmussen was steaming down the river in a tug boat when he noticed the body wriggling in the water. The boat hove to and the captain and several mates lifted the body on deck. It was still wriggling. A note pinned on the vest read: "In case of my death my name is Abe Axelrod, and I live at 1032 South Illinois street, in Indianapolis, Ind."

Some time later Axelrod regained consciousness in the Iroquois hospital. "Doctor," he called, "I sure tried my darndest, but I wouldn't do down. I suppose I'm too heavy to sink. I'm going to start reducing."

Lincolns that have stood the test of service—splendid cars with only a few thousand miles of use—are purchasable at prices that in no way indicate their true values. These cars are as smart as much in the current mode as new cars. They are as powerful, as quiet, and as thoroughly capable as a car can be made. GOV. EMMERSON CALLS ON THE PRESIDENT

Gov. Emerson has conferred with President Hoover regarding the completion of the Illinois waterway. Chicago and Illinois together have spent something like $50,000,000 on the link which is to connect the lakes with the gulf, but an additional sum, which is probably not less than $2,500,000 nor more than $5,000,000, is needed. The waterway may be completed within a year of the time that money is obtained. Gov. Emerson believes that the federal government should undertake to complete the job.

Mr. Hoover, it may be assumed, was not unfamiliar with the facts which Gov. Emerson placed before him. A national transportation system which does not tap Chicago is not a national transportation system. If it succeeds at all it will be in spite of its failure to reach the point on the map which marks the greatest concentration of freight in transit. A transportation system which reaches Chicago is assured of the balance of in and out bound shipments which make transport cheap and profitable. Exactly as the railroads have covered here, the motor roads and the air lines have met in the Chicago area and for the same reasons.

The Illinois waterway, which is the most important link in the entire Mississippi chain, is unique in that it has been brought to virtual completion without any financial assistance from the federal government. Constitutional obstacles prevent its early completion by the state of Illinois. No more bonds may be issued for it and none of the general revenues of the state may be spent on it without an amendment of the state constitution. Sooner or later the link must be completed and the only possible method of completing it within years is under federal auspices.

To assure federal cooperation, Gov. Emerson understood to have offered to make over the control of the waterway to the federal government. For an expenditure of $5,000,000 or less, the federal government is to receive title to a work which cost more than fifteen times as much. Illinois is prepared to make that sacrifice, if only to put an end, once for all, to the ridiculous claim that the real purpose of the diversion from Lake Michigan is the creation of water power at and below Lockport.

Mr. Hoover is one of the few men in the United States who have comprehended the possibilities of the Mississippi system for national service. He has pledged himself to bring that system to an early completion. It is already functioning as efficiently as can be expected at present on the limited stretch from St. Louis to New Orleans and the nation shortly will celebrate the completion of the canalization of the Ohio [at federal expense] from Pittsburgh to Cairo. It is to be hoped that Mr. Hoover's administration will also have the honor of opening the Illinois waterway to the service of the nation.

NEW AIR SCHEDULES FOR PASSENGERS

Air transportation for the convenience of Chicago passengers is promoted by recent announcements of two projected improvements in service by airplane operators. The United Aircraft and Transport corporation is acquiring new subsidiaries for the purpose of getting a trunk line passenger schedule from the Pacific to the Atlantic with Chicago as a principal transfer point. This will be the first coast to coast air line through Chicago. The second piece of air news, which will interest travelers in this neighborhood, is the plan of the Universal Air Lines system to operate a faster plane between St. Louis and Chicago. An extra plane will make the daily round trip in two hours and forty minutes instead of three hours and fifteen minutes.

The opportunity to get to Chicago in less than three hours and return the same day will be attractive to the residents of St. Louis. Heretofore they have had the choice of an overnight trip to Chicago or a slightly longer railroad journey to New York, and as a consequence of the substantial line involved in either case the destination of St. Louisans on metropolitan excursions has often been New York instead of Chicago. But now with the two hours and forty minutes air schedule the difference between a railroad journey to New York and an aviation trip to Chicago is the difference between an occasion and an incident. Business, theater, shopping and social engagements in Chicago can be easily filled from St. Louis with only one night's absence or without the absence of a single night from home. That is real business.

Other ventures in transcontinental air lines or interline lines have been started and planned without adequate consideration for the convenience of Chicago travelers or travelers desiring to reach Chicago. That is a serious omission, for despite municipal delinquency in furnishing terminal facilities here, Chicago has become the central air station of the country, just as it is the central railroad depot. The promoters of the other schedules will suffer for their error, while the United Aircraft and Transport corporation will profit from its recognition of Chicago's importance in the air.

PUBLIC ORDER HERE AND ABROAD

May day demonstrations in Europe do not often live up to the prospectus. They are chiefly thunder in the index, probably, for one reason, because they are the occasion for police precautions and are put under efficient police check. Nevertheless they cause concern and formidable disturbances on that day and on others are not unexpected or unusual.

Berlin disturbers showed their resentment of police check the other day by starting riots in seventeen sections of the city and stopped traffic in the Potsdamer Platz until dispersed by numerous charges of police. The fire department was called out to handle a crowd bent on property destruction.

Nearly all continental Europe has experience with such disorders, such violence and destructive demonstration against political government, party control and economic rule. Both Germany and France can subdue them, but elsewhere they have been terrifying. This is a form of disorder and lawlessness with which the United States has virtually no experience now. American lawlessness is one of individual crime or of organized criminal activity. Aside from crimes of passion American lawlessness is criminality.

European lawlessness contains not only the acts of criminals but also this aspect of political action seeking its objects by violence. That reflects the attitude of a people toward public order. It is evidence of the essential stability of the American people, of their genuine respect for the authority and the order they have created by their own decisions, that they hardly know what it is to have barricades in their streets or to have police squadrons charging down to disperse great masses of unruly citizens.

PRIVILEGED GARAGES

Paul Weisman, a resident of the south side, had an unpleasant experience with the Lincoln park police which calls for an explanation on the part of the district's authorities. At Sheridan road and Broadway Mr. Weisman's automobile collided with a taxicab. Before seeking medical attention he ordered a nearby garage to tow his car from the scene and store it. Just as the car was ready to be taken away two Lincoln park policemen interfered. They ordered the damaged automobile to be unhooked from the tow car and they called a garage some five miles away to remove the wreck. The taxicab company was permitted to tow its machine to its own plant.

The garage which the officers summoned is one of those which remove wrecked, stolen, and abandoned automobiles for the police. Of course, it is convenient for the police to have designated agencies, properly equipped, to do this work. But the arrangement may be abused. The criticism that Morris Eller, Twentieth ward boss, is interested in one or two of the official garages is not as serious as the charge growing out of the Weisman incident, that property rights, perhaps only occasionally, are grossly violated.

Unless there is some justification, which has not been produced, for the action of the Lincoln park policemen the business of depriving a citizen of his property is outrageous and unlawful. Furthermore, there is the danger that the garages, under official favor, may charge the owners extortionate rates for recovering their stolen or damaged cars. The system should be investigated.

RED MEAT AND RARE

A bill has been introduced in the Illinois legislature to establish a state censorship of the movies. At present there is a state-wide censorship of the movies, though it has no official recognition at Springfield. We refer to the Chicago censorship. Practically all the films shown in Illinois, as a matter of trade practice, are first submitted to the Chicago board, to the annoyance of theater owners and the theater public downtown, whose standards of propriety, we are often reminded, are not those of the city.

No indeed. Downstate likes its meat rare. Downstate theater owners have demanded, time without number, that the feet and yards of fevered embracing, not to mention homicide, which the Chicago censors snipped out be replaced for the edification of the audiences of La Salle, Peoria, Springfield and Centralia. Unfortunately, the cost of restoration has generally proved prohibitive and downstate has been obliged to take its movies uncut or not at all. Plainly Chicago standards are altogether too puritanical for these communities, where taste runs to the Elizabethan and the hearty.

If this bill will give the smaller cities and villages of Illinois the seasoning which their palates crave, we are for it. We have little use for political censors and censorship and we particularly deplore the imposition of the refinements of urban taste upon those who do not appreciate them.

Editorial of the Day

"GOING WEST TO COLLEGE"
(Boston Herald.)

The news that Warren Drouet, an Arlington youth, has been captain of the University of Wisconsin football, both the east and the west, is the first that has reached the ears of the young men raised in the midwest and the Pacific coast, take pride in learning that a mere six footer, born and bred in the little old Bay state, alleged to be so broad of sturdy manhood, will lead one of the western entries in the Poughkeepsie regatta this June. They in the west are pleased—or ought to be—that one of our youngsters, a graduate of Phillips Exeter, chose to matriculate at one of their universities when he might just as well have gone to Harvard, Yale, Dartmouth, or one of a dozen other institutions near his home.

The young man's father, William C. Drouet, a Boston lawyer, is reported as saying that he sent Warren to a western college so that he could learn to know that part of our country and its ways and people. Mr. Drouet merely followed an example that has long been set by western fathers. Our older eastern universities are filled with boys from the west, who have come here to enjoy what the catalogue calls "cultural advantages." Surely the western schools, particularly the larger state universities, afford comparable intellectual and social opportunities, and it is to be hoped that young New Englanders will follow Warren Drouet across the Appalachians. That would be good for the west, not bad for the east and all to the good for the nation.

To the village green, all ye lads and lassies, and dance around the May pole. This is the month of youth and joy and happiness. Jonquills are in bloom, and there are snowdrops and red catkins, and in the woods the yellow lady slippers are in bud. The air is filled with the sweet odors of leaves and blossoms, green grass, and all sorts of growing things. It's the month of fond hopes, of beautiful dreams and love. Also it rains like hell. This is the month you'll find the wild strawberries in blossom on the sunny slopes and see the honeycuckles in full leaf and bud. Up in the trees singing their little heads off are the cardinals, the flashing tanagers, and the rose-breasted grosbeaks. And down in the swamps the Mr. and Mrs. Mosquito, just married, are hatching out millions of their dirty, ornery little brats. But it's a great month. Get outdoors and enjoy the soft spring air, the blue skies, and the smell of the flowers. Hey, take your umbrellas with you, you'll probably need it.

SURPRISING BURST OF INSIGHT

The sky is fair, the lake is blue, As blue as it can be, And solely on account of you They look quite black to me.

There is a pain within my heart, Another in my head, I weep because we are apart And wish that I were dead.

I find no pleasure in a dance, No success in a drink, No solace in a nice man's glance . . . I'm not, quite bright, I think!

—SHEILA STUART.

THE MANCHESTER SQUARE CASE.

Sir Algeon Somers was found murdered in his home in Manchester Square. A large gunshot wound was in the center of his forehead. A few days later his butler and his cook also got theirs. And the same way. Scotland Yard has the case, but Constable Higgins, who was on beat in Manchester Square, has obtained leave of absence and is endeavoring to solve the mystery on his own. The trail led to Oxford. There, somewhere else. Where? Ah, we're coming to that right now.

INSTALLMENT XXIII

Police-Constable Higgins walked out of the tramway station and down the road. Constable Higgins was a bit dazed. He remembered that some time in the dim past, several months before, or several weeks before, or possibly only the night before, he had fallen in with an American at Oxford. He could not remember the name of the American unless it was Mr. Porters Sidings. In fact, the American had not happened to tell him his name, but he had talked a great deal about his home town, Porters Sidings in Illinois, U. S. A. But in the strange daze that had come over him Constable Higgins only recalled that he had met a very pleasant American, Mr. Porters Sidings, who had insisted on buying enormous quantities of Scotch and polly and gin and tonic.

Mr. Porters Sidings had varied this program now and then by teaching the barmaid to concoct various American drinks. Constable Higgins had relished especially one called a "Horse's Neck," which came in a long glass with the peeling of a lemon draped gracefully from the top of the glass, a little sugar, considerable whisky, and the whole filled up with sodawater. Constable Higgins had grown very fond of this American national drink, as Mr. Porters Sidings called it, but he had also liked what Mr. Sidings had termed a "Bronx," another called "Martini."

The barmaid, somewhat piqued because Mr. Porters Sidings had said the English didn't know how to make a decent cocktail even when somebody from God's country stood right over 'em and showed 'em, said very acidly, "If it's 'cos' you like, you'll excuse me sir, but I tell you that we've a cocktail here, sir, that is much superior to anything you 'ave in Hammerica, an' begin'nin' your pardon for saying so."

"Botch five dollars to a quarter there hain't no English cocktail that's got anything on the kind we have in the U. S. A."

"Five dollars, 'a quarter?" said the barmaid. "Hi don't know just what that would be in our money, sir."

"Well, five dollars o' real money," explained Mr. Porters Sidings, looking into his guide book, "would be a pound in English money. And a quarter in real money is what you call a bob."

"I hain't no permitted to make wagers with the patrons," the barmaid replied with great dignity, "but I will make you a Side Car and you may judge for yourself, sir."

Mr. Porters Sidings and Constable Higgins drank their Side Cars with great enjoyment.

"Wow!" yelled Mr. Porters Sidings. "It's the eels' eyebrows! Wow! sister, make some more o' 'em and then tell me what goes in 'em. I'm going to take that there Side Car back to Porters Sidings, Andy Volstead or no Andy Volstead."

"It's quite a favorite over 'ere, sir," said the barmaid.

"Hooley for Side Cars!" yelled Mr. Porters Sidings. "I hain't never going home. I'm staying in this country for 'er rest o' my life. Hooley for Side Car, cockshalls, Side Car cockshalls. Got 'er syringhe else skinned a mule. Side Cars Fever. Hooley for Side Cars!"

As Constable Higgins walked along in the early spring sunshine down the street of a perfectly strange town he tried to put things together and remember what had happened the night before or the year before. He wasn't in London, he was sure of that.

The town in which he had so suddenly found himself was hardly more than a good sized village. It wasn't Oxford. No, he had gone away from Oxford. He had left Oxford to escape from Mr. Porters Sidings. About all he could remember of the night before, or the year before, or whenever it all happened, was that Mr. Porters Sidings was proclaiming his joy at being outside of the United States and ordering the barmaid to make "whole flock o' Side Cars."

That was all Constable Higgins could recall. "I wish," said Constable Higgins bitterly to himself, "that the Americans had more liberal laws, then they wouldn't have to come over here and do all their drinking at once. But where am I?"

Lagniappe

MR. HOOVER has put on a night shift of stenographers in the White House. Now probably congress will put on a night shift, too. In that case we favor Sen. Heflin for the dog watch, and let him stand it all alone. Then he can make speeches to himself.

DO NOT WAKE and call me early; ah, forget it, mother dear, even though today's the first of May, why should I raise a cheer? No, don't wake and call me early, that old stuff makes me grin. And if you tried to pull it up, you'd find I'd just got in.

LET CHILDREN RULE EATING

CHILDREN should be allowed to eat as much or as little as they wish, according to Dr. C. A. Aldrich. His creed is: "The child should eat enough so that he makes a normal yearly gain in weight. Then he starts a process of 'whittling down' his yardstick. At the end the yardstick is about: Let appetite be the guide or let nature take its course."

First, he says, the normal yearly gain in weight varies from four to six pounds in children of the same age. Certain bulid of children; certain nationalities, certain families and certain behavior types put on weight faster than others. There is even a difference in the amount of constant food in relation to each pound of gain in weight. Or, put more simply, very energetic children require more food than those who are more quiet.

Six pounds is fifty per cent more than four pounds. The next step in the whittling process is Dr. Aldrich's statement that the child should be judged by his state of health rather than his weight. He argues that weight for age, and even weight for age and stature, is not a good guide. Children vary too much in the size of their bodies and in their bodily build for weight to be a good guide. He says that many children acquire inferiority complexes because they make poor showings by the weight-height-age scales. Many of these children are eating enough and their bodies are growing properly. They are under the scale because they are of the small type.

By health Dr. Aldrich means being happy and playful, looking well and feeling well, and growing satisfactorily in weight and stature. In other words, he would judge of a child's eating in the same common-sense way we judge that of a colt, a calf, or a pig. He says: "Let us be happy if he is healthy, restless if he is not, and let us assume that he eats enough if his yearly gain in weight is steady and within rather wide normal variations." These are about the views that Dr. Greeley, senior nutrition expert, have been advocating for some time.

WIFE RETAINS CITIZENSHIP

Chicago, April 25.—[Friend of the People.]—A widow who is a United States citizen is a German citizen by her husband for several years but has not been divorced. I have some bonds and property in my name. In case of my death, [I] would my property go to my husband? [I] if I die, what steps should I take to prevent this?

D. L.

1. You could not deprive him by will of his statutory share without getting a divorce against him. By placing the property in trust during your lifetime you could cut him off. 2. We advise you to employ an attorney. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CHILDREN PLAY ON DUMP

Chicago, April 25.—[Friend of the People.]—I would like your assistance in regard to the vacant lot next door to us which are being used as a dump for ashes, cans, etc., making it very unpleasant for the surrounding houses. Children play on the lot and the condition of the property is certainly a menace to their health.

Report is made that condition complained of will be remedied and notices served on householders in the vicinity to stop further dumping on vacant property.

J. B. BUTLER, Deputy superintendent of streets.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

65 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 1, 1864.
LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Most enthusiastic war meetings are being held here and the blood of the Wabash region is up. Gov. Morton has not overestimated the seal of the loyal men of Indiana and the 20,000 three months men will be forthcoming.

MARGINA CITY, Idaho Territory. (Tribune 10.)—J. L. Slade, ranchman, ten miles from here, who has long been a terror to the community, because when in town he was always drunk and had with him a gang of desperadoes who feared nothing and never observed law, order or the counsel of any man, was hanged by the vigilance committee. The committee had sent him word when he was sober that if he did not observe the law he must abide by the consequences. To-day he and his company were crazy drunk. A company of 300 men, after placing a guard about the town, seized him and conducted him to a ravine where a gallows already had been erected. Hills, streets and house-tops were covered with men, women and children. Slade pleaded in vain for his life. He said that his execution was not until his "beloved wife" could arrive. The people yelled; "Let him see his wife," and trouble was feared. But 300 guns leveled on the crowd cowed it, and Slade was hanged while still pleading for a few minutes longer to see his wife. Mrs. Slade arrived shortly after the execution. She is a lady and a woman of excellent character.

CHICAGO.—Mr. Volk, the well-known sculptor, has finished the clay model of his design for the Douglas monument and is rapidly putting it in plaster.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 1, 1919.
NEW YORK.—Thirty-six bombs are known to have been mailed from New York to members of the President's cabinet, government and state officials, from Philadelphia to the auditor of walks of life in various sections of the country. Six of them reached their destination and one of them exploded when opened. It wounded the wife of ex-Senator J. B. McPherson and her maid. Postal authorities discovered thirty of the bombs before they were delivered. Among those to whom bombs were mailed were Judge Keneas Mountain Landis of Chicago, John D. Rockefeller, J. P. Morgan, Mayor John F. Hylan of New York, R. E. Baughman, police commissioner, New York; Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson, Mayor Ole Hanson of Seattle, Postmaster General Burleson, Attorney General Mitchell Palmer, Gov. William C. Sproul of Pennsylvania, and United States Supreme Court Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes. It is believed the design was to create a reign of terror on May day.

CHICAGO.—Mailman Sam Kamenisky threw a parcel over the transom into Judge Landis' office, Ben Stern, a clerk, tossed it on the desk of Miss Hilda Krelak, secretary, and it was used as a paper weight all day. When news of the mailing of bombs came Gen. James H. Stuart, chief of post-office inspectors, was called in and he pronounced it one of the infernal machines sent out from New York. It, like all those found in the east, bore the inscription, "Gimbel Brothers, New York City." The death package was locked in a safe.

CHICAGO.—Dr. Duncan R. MacMartin, one of Chicago's best known physicians, was found dead in the bath tub of his suite in the Great Northern hotel. Death was due to apoplexy, a coroner's physician said.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 1, 1899.
NEW YORK.—Patrick J. Gleason has scored another triumph over his enemies by having the legislature pass a law practically declaring that the whole of Queens county is a jail. Under this law whenever Mr. Gleason is called upon to go to prison, all he will have to do will be to stay right where he is so long as he is in Queens county. The meaning of the law was not explained until after the governor had signed it. When Gleason was inducted into the office of mayor of Long Island City a few years ago he called Anthony A. Woods, then captain of police, some harsh names. Woods sued him for slander and got a judgment for $2,000, which Gleason refused to pay. The next step was for the sheriff to put him in jail. Now, as the whole county is a jail,

ALAS, POOR YORICK, HE KNEW HIM!

SOVEREIGN STATES OF THE SOUTH

Chicago, April 25.—Your cartoon of Monday was rather unfortunate in being placed next to Mr. Steele's dispatch from London explaining the position of the United States in relation to the repudiated debts of the southern states. One seemed to contradict the other.

I suggest that it would be sportsmanlike to request Mr. Orr to draw another cartoon depicting Uncle Sam on a pedestal, his right arm upraised, sternly scolding Europe that "international debts are sacred—they must be paid," while his other hand caresses his fat stomach. Mississippi, who, together with five or six other fat sons, is cramming their pockets with 300 million dollars.

J. W. C.

FROM PETRILLO OF THE MUSICALS' FEDERATION

Chicago, April 25.—Quite recently the Adams theater, located at Adams and Wabash, was invaded by two gunmen and the mechanical organ set on fire. Because the Chicago Federation of Musicians, of which I am president, had been in dispute with this theater over its failure to live up to an agreement which requires that a federation musician be employed to operate said instrument, I have been charged, both directly and indirectly, with being responsible for its destruction.

Is this fair? Does my reputation as a labor leader in Chicago warrant any such accusation being directed against me? In these anything but my record during the seven years I have been president of the Chicago Federation of Musicians that justifies such an aspersion upon my character? Ask any of the employers with whom I have done business in this city—the theater managers, the Chicago Civic Opera management, the various park boards, the hotels, restaurants, cafes, dance halls, radio stations, etc., whether they consider me capable of such an act, and I will accept without question whatever verdict they may render.

Under the circumstances, I believe the least I am entitled to is a fair hearing. I am condemned by both press and public. I am willing to face any tribunal, before the evidence, plus my record as a labor leader in Chicago, decide the question of my guilt or innocence, and I am satisfied to have the jury that tries the case selected from among the foregoing list of employers. In connection with this matter I wish to inform you that the Chicago Federation of Musicians has this day entered suit for slander against those responsible for this calumny and are asking for $100,000 damages. But such suits usually hang fire for a year or two before reaching a conclusion, and I am unwilling to wait that length of time before obtaining a hearing. I am, therefore, asking you in the name of justice to print this letter in your paper.

JAMES C. PETRILLO, President Chicago Federation of Musicians.

LESS STATUARY, MORE STREET CARS

Chicago, April 25.—A letter appeared in your department regarding the need of Chicago for statuary.

There is a funny thing about statues. We feel we are doing a noble thing to spend money to erect statues of great men. Of course, most of the population then forgotten by the general public whom they represent, or why, or when, or anything else, but they should be taught to know them. But many of them are erected in a great city and then forgotten by the general public. People coming to the city on a visit have read of those statues and want to see them, so we get out our guides and hunt them up for them. We find that we have been paying them every day going to work, but had not noticed them and did not know where they were.

For instance, Cincinnati has a beautiful statue of a man.

TRIALS OF THE MILKMAN

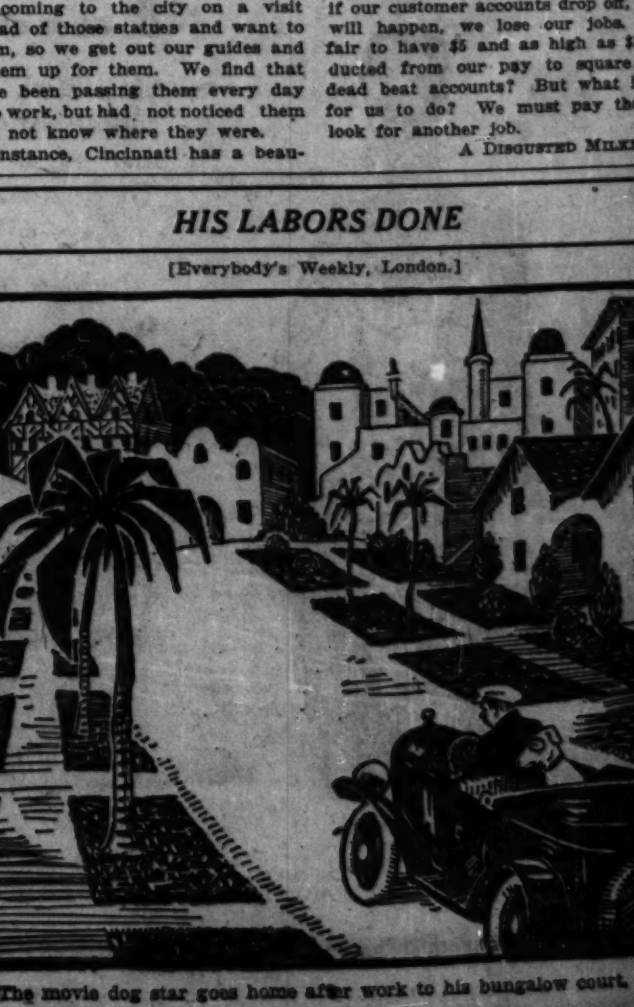

Chicago, April 25.—I am employed by one of the largest milk companies in this city and feel that some facts should be brought to the public notice to show under what conditions a milkman must work.

Milk wagon drivers are compelled to pay the accounts of the dead beasts on their routes. We are instructed to collect weekly or bi-weekly service, and if our customer accounts drop off, which will happen, we lose our jobs. It is fair to have $5 and as high as $15 deducted from our pay in square these lost beast accounts. But what is left for us to do? We must pay them or look for another job.

BOAT SMASHES CLARK ST. SPAN; STREET BLOCKED

Traffic May Have to Wait for New Bridge.

The Clark street bridge was wrecked by the sandboat, Sandmaster, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. So extensive was the damage that city engineers estimated that it would cost more than $50,000 and take more than a month to repair the bridge. They practically decided to condemn the bridge and there thus will be no traffic over the important thoroughfare until the new bridge now under construction is completed some time in September.

Moreover, the sandboat was so wedged between the bridge and the shore that it had not been extricated last night. No craft larger than a rowboat could pass up or down the river.

The Sandmaster is the same boat which, racing with another sandboat last Dec. 4, became jammed at the Michigan boulevard bridge and tied up traffic for half an hour.

Witnesses Describe Crash.
The manner of yesterday's accident was this:

The Sandmaster was proceeding eastward on its daily trip down the river. It is a large boat, 251 feet long, and as its prow passed under the opened La Salle street bridge, which is of the jack knife type, bridge tender Martin Jeffers at the Clark street bridge pulled his levers.

The old bridge swings on a turntable. It turned in such fashion that the south end pointed towards the oncoming boat.

When the Sandmaster's bow was still 150 feet from the bridge it became apparent that at the speed it was making a collision was inevitable. The bridge would not be opened wide enough when the boat arrived.

Warning Signals Unheeded.

Charles S. Rowe, engineer in charge of construction of the new bridge; Policeman John Ahern, Frank Ward, bridge tender who had just gone off duty, and Jeffers, the bridge tender at the controls, all declared they signaled the oncoming boat to slow its speed. Apparently not noticing their arm warnings and shouts, the boat went on and its steel prow carved into the end of the bridge pointed towards it.

Under the terrific impact, the old bridge crashed from its rollers and tilted at a dangerous angle above the river.

Capt. Ava Smith of the Sandmaster was interviewed soon after the collision.

"It wasn't my fault," he said. "I had the port motor going full ahead and the starboard motor in reverse. There was plenty of room to pass through but just before we got to the bridge, the tender must have swung it back about ten feet right into the ship."

Cause Confusion in Loop.

All Clark street traffic was rerouted over La Salle and Wells streets. This necessitated left hand turns in the loop and caused much confusion. Automobile traffic found one less route to the north side and the other thoroughfares were crowded to capacity. The Sandmaster is owned by the Construction Materials company whose officials have led other ship interests in opposing longer closed bridge hours and fixed bridges.

A sand barge, the Gilbert, moving upstream in the north branch of the Chicago river, scraped the Diversey parkway bridge yesterday as the span was swung open to allow the barge to proceed. Several boards on the side of the bridge were torn loose but it was not put out of service. The boat was under command of Capt. William Brown.

Find Saws in Herbert's

Cell; Moved to Bridewell
"Big" Earl Herbert, a lieutenant of Joe Sattis in the booze racket, was taken from the De Kalb county jail at Sycamore yesterday, where he was serving a year's sentence for violation of the prohibition law and lodged in the Bridewell, following the discovery of several saws in his cell last Thursday. The discovery was made by Mrs. Helen Dolder, sheriff of De Kalb county. The transfer was ordered by Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt. Herbert has seven more months to serve.

LINKS FEDERAL COURT OFFICIALS IN CORRUPTION

Spurious Lawyer Confesses in Brooklyn.

New York, April 30.—[Special.]—A confession of corruption in the Brooklyn federal courts involving accusations against the highest officials and the release from prison of the man who made the confession and accusation after he had repudiated his statements is the foundation of sweeping charges launched by Attorney General Mitchell in demanding the resignation of United States Attorney William A. De Groot.

The confession is said to have been made by Irving Joseph Denmark, a spurious lawyer, who handled more than 100 liquor cases in the Brooklyn federal court before he was exposed.

Expected to Be Ousted.

Mr. De Groot admitted tonight he probably would be ousted tomorrow despite his appeal to President Hoover for a hearing and his determination to remain in office until the President acts.

It also was indicated that Denmark's accusations may be made public. Representative Andrew L. Somers said he would ask the department of justice to give the contents of the confession to the congressional committee investigating the official conduct of Judge Grover M. Moscovitz. A subpoena will be issued to bring Denmark before the Moscovitz committee at its next hearing.

Released from Jail.

The confession of Denmark is held important in the investigation of Judge Moscovitz because Denmark was released from jail, where he was serving a sentence of one year, by Judge Burrows, after a conference with Mr. De Groot and Judge Moscovitz. One of Mr. De Groot's assistants prosecuted Denmark, and Judge Moscovitz sentenced him, and for that reason they were consulted by Judge Burrows when the motion for his release was made.

Denmark is not only out of jail but he has resumed activities in the Brooklyn courts as a runner for a group of bondsmen in the Magistrate's courts.

Sailing of Ile de France

HAVER, France, May 1.—[AP.]—The French liner Ile de France was obliged to postpone its sailing, set for 1 a. m. today, when 300 deckhands decided to strike in support of claims of stewards and cooks of the liner. It was not known when the Ile de France would be able to depart.

WOMAN KILLED BY BURNING

Mrs. Mary Romanowski, 34 years old, 8622 Baltimore avenue, mother of five children, died at the South Chicago hospital yesterday of burns caused by an explosion of kerosene in the kitchen of her home.

4 SLAIN, 2 HURT IN GUN FIGHT IN KENTUCKY HILLS

Paintsville, Ky., April 30.—[AP.]—A sheriff, going into the hills to investigate reports of a shooting, today met a horse drawn sled, still a common vehicle where roads are not good, and on it found the bodies of two men, a woman and a boy, as well as a wounded man. All were victims of a drunken quarrel which occurred far back in the hill country.

On the sled was Wayne Hannah, 32, wounded in the gun battle, lying beside the body of his brother, Wallace Hannah, 34, and the bodies of Lee Gibson, 45; his wife, Cassie Gibson, and their son, Bernie, 14.

A neighbor, who was not involved in the shooting, was driving the sled.

Another man, Dennis Saylor, later was arrested in connection with the affair. He was shot through the arm. Authorities are patching together the stories of Wayne Hannah and Saylor in an effort to reconstruct the tragedy. Hannah, doctors said, probably will die, leaving Saylor as the only witness.

Statements taken from the wounded men by authorities laid the shooting to a quarrel between Gibson and Wallace Hannah over their race for school trustees. All had been drinking, Wayne and Saylor said.

The sheriff reported finding a moonshine still near the scene of the shooting.

MAIMING QUITS FIRE FIGHT.

Division Fire Marshal Oscar Malmberg, assigned to the 10th division with headquarters at Division and Cherry streets, yesterday submitted his resignation, effective today. Malmberg has 150 years to his credit during the 40 years that he has been on the force. Joseph Mackey, now chief of the 1st battalion, will succeed him.

$2500.00 CASH PRIZES to Smokers of Charles Denby Cigars

NOTHING TO BUY. NOTHING TO GUESS. 348 CASH PRIZES ALL TOLD
Your Chance To Win a Prize Is As Good As Anybody's. Its Manufacturers Simply Want You To Tell Them In Your Own Natural Way Just What You Think Is The Real Secret Of The Charles Denby's Nation-wide Popularity
And Why You Like It Better Than Any Other Cigar

Not only do they want you to tell them the "what" and the reasons "why," but also to state "when" you first started smoking the Charles Denby Cigar—yes, and what else there is about the "Denby" that you like best.

They want your candid opinion—your own thoughts expressed in your own words, in your own natural way—want to know just what makes all you fellows swear by the "Charles Denby."

Is it the "Denby's" flavor? Its straight shape? Is it the blending of such fine, mellow, old cigar tobaccos and Imported Sumatra wrapper, that makes it a totally different tasting smoke from any other cigar in the world?

No matter WHAT it is, nor WHO you are, nor WHERE you are, as a happy "Denby" smoker you can jot down something that has made the "Denby" please you better than any other cigar.

You have just as good a chance as anyone else to win one of the by simply writing a short letter, and sending it in, as stipulated in the "Rules of Contest" herein.

Of course, its manufacturers KNOW the "SECRET". They discovered it 30 years ago, after they had been making standard grade cigars for 50 years and trying to figure out just what kind of cigar would most please most smokers. It pleased so many that they have never changed or tampered with the "Denby's" makeup or taste, either in times of peace or war. It is the same differently made and differently tasting cigar it was 30 years ago.

Remember, there are no strings to this offer—it's one of the ways its manufacturers want to show their appreciation and pay you liberally for writing them your experience and satisfaction in smoking the "Charles Denby."

You may have already smoked out that secret. So hop to it, now, Friend Smoker. It's a big chance for you to win some quick, easy money. This contest is a fair, square proposition, which you, as a loyal "Denby" friend and booster are interested in seeing "go over."

You don't have to write any jingles, poems, funny stuff, or use any highfalutin' words. You just state in your own plain way, what comes to you as the result of your delightful experience in the smoking of the "Charles Denby."

You are Paying for a Packard Why not Own One?

SEVENTY per cent of those who buy the Packard Standard Eight give up other makes of cars—thousands in the ten to fifteen hundred dollar class. These new owners quickly learn—

That it costs no more to operate and maintain a Packard than their old cars—cars costing even a thousand dollars less.

And that it costs no more to own a Packard because Packard owners keep their cars nearly twice as long and drive them nearly twice as far as the lower-priced cars they trade in.

Those who buy on the payment plan find—

That they keep their cars several times as long as it takes to pay for them—a relief to those who have made monthly payments every other year on other cars.

And that on the average, the value of their used cars equals or exceeds the down payment on the new car—leaving each small monthly payment the largest cash outlay in the having of a Packard.

Ninety-four out of every hundred who buy Packard cars never leave the Packard family but continue to buy Packard cars—proof that "Ask The Man Who Owns One" means just what it says.

Now $160 Less

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

LINDY PRAISES CHICAGO AIRPORT IN SENATE CHAT

But U. S. Fields Lag Far Behind Europe's.

Washington, D. C., April 30.—(Special.)—Chicago municipal airport was described by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today as one of the best in the country. Testifying before a joint congressional committee studying plans for a capital airport, Col. Lindbergh asserted that while the Chicago and Oakland, Cal., fields rank well above others in the United States, neither may be considered a model. The United States, he added, has no airports comparable to those common in Europe.

"Washington should have an airport equalling anything in the world," declared the flying colonel, "and I think the whole country feels that way. I expect to see safe air transportation between North and South America soon, and within a year or two we should be flying in multimotored ships directly from Washington or New York to Buenos Aires or Rio de Janeiro."

Flyer Holds a Levee.
Col. Lindbergh appeared before the joint committee in an executive session, and following his testimony, he was escorted to the senate chamber, where he was given an ovation by senators and gallery crowds. Standing in the well before the rostrum, with Vice President Curtis on one side and Senator Hiram Bingham (Rep., Conn.), chairman of the joint committee, on the other, the youthful flyer shook hands with senators, pages and senate employees.

Fog Flying to Be Solved.
Digressing from discussion of the proposed Washington airport, the colonel, in response to queries by members of the joint committee, visioned remarkable developments in aviation in the near future.
"Fog flying," he said, "will have more effect on future air transportation than will anything else. We must develop air transport to some accuracy comparable to land travel. For landing we will, I think, be able to use intersecting radio beams, sonic altimeters and other instruments. We'll be able to land on a field we can't see."

It was announced yesterday by the American Air Transport association. The planes will fly for the first time at night between Salt Lake City and San Francisco. A line of beacon lights 424 miles long, just installed, will make it possible to eliminate a delay of 12 hours in the receipt of mail on both coasts.

The Universal Air lines yesterday announced that two new passenger services will be started today. One line will run from St. Louis through Kansas City to Omaha and the other will be a second passenger service between Chicago and St. Louis, with stops at Peoria and Springfield. BROOKHART HAS BLACK EYE; GOT IT HUNTING FISH

Washington, D. C., April 30.—(AP)—Senator Smith W. Brookhart of Iowa has a black eye and a cut on his face, but he has a real fish story to explain it.

When colleagues chided him the Iowa told this story:
"I was fishing and slipped on a stone in the creek, falling and striking his head against a rock.
The right eye is badly discolored, but the senator says it doesn't hurt. The skin near the eye is cut and he admits that hurts some."

KILLED BY LIVE WIRE.
Sioux City, Ia., April 30.—(Special.)—Francis Bosquet, 37 years old, steamfitter at Swift & Co.'s packing plant, was killed today when he craped an exposed electric wire carrying heavy current.

A new air line connecting Minneapolis, Des Moines, Ia., and Kansas City will be inaugurated on Monday. It was announced yesterday by the Yellow Cab Airways, Inc., of Des Moines. Two ships will operate on daily round trip flights between these points. The line will connect with the air routes at Kansas City.

Pilot Dwight Morrow, instructor for the Aviation Service and Transport company, yesterday made a safe landing in a plane after the landing gear had been damaged on the takeoff. Just after he had left the Municipal airport mechanics from the hangars signalled that his landing gear had become partially detached and was hanging loose on one side. Morrow descended, set the plane into a side slip and before landing to throw the weight on one wheel, and brought the ship to the ground with only minor damage.

ANNOUNCE RULES FOR AIRPORTS OF ENTRY ON BORDER

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., April 30.—(Special.)—Comprehensive regulations for the guidance of applicants, including municipalities and commercial firms, who seek to have airports on the border designated as airports of entry for civil aircraft arriving in the United States and as ports of entry for aliens arriving in the United States by aircraft, as promulgated by Secretary of the Treasury Mellon, Secretary of Commerce Lamont, and Secretary of Labor Davis, were made public today. Nearly forty cities, including Chicago, now have applications before the joint departmental board asking designation of airports in all sections of the country as airports of entry. At least a dozen of these are expected to be designated soon.

The new regulations provide that such airports shall be designated by the secretary of the treasury and by the secretary of labor as airports for the entry of aliens arriving in the United States by aircraft. None will be designated until investigation discloses the need in a particular area, and the airport be in the area best suited for the purpose.

MEXICAN REBELS GIVE UP NOGALES; 700 SURRENDER

Four More Generals Flee
Across U. S. Border.

Nogales, Ariz., April 30.—(AP)—Approval by the federal Mexican government of the surrender of Nogales, Sonora, by rebel leaders under the terms submitted at a conference held here this afternoon was announced shortly after 3 o'clock by Mexican Consul Rafael Avelayda. At Naco, Sonora, a rebel cavalry regiment of 350 men left at Agua Prieta by Gen. Gonzalo Escobar surrendered to federal forces tonight.

Federal authorities here immediately crossed the international line and occupied the Mexican City in the name of the government. Approximately 700 rebel soldiers surrendered after Consul Rafael Avelayda had addressed them, guaranteeing them safety, food, clothing, and shelter.

Follows Flight of Generals.

The offer by the rebel leaders to surrender followed the flight to this city of four more generals. Gen. Francisco Borquez, rebel commander of Nogales, was the first to cross the international line and ask sanctuary in the United States. Three more rebel leaders soon followed. They were Gen. Aurelio Manrique, Gen. Enrique Estrada, and Gen. Ochoa. The rebel command of Nogales, Sonora, was left in the hands of Rodriguez. Rebel authorities took Sonora Borquez to headquarters and refused to allow her passage to the United States.

U. S. Masses Border Troops.
With the rebel troops left almost leaderless, a situation which might endanger Americans on this side of the border was feared. A bugle call to arms was blown at Camp Stephen D. Little at noon, and all units of the United States army on duty here immediately occupied positions overlooking Nogales, Sonora. Troops at Camp Little, commanded by Brig. Gen. Frank S. Cocheu, are the Twentieth and Twenty-fifth infantry, two squadrons of the Tenth cavalry and two batteries of artillery.

Three federal bombing planes which appeared over Nogales speeded up the decision to surrender. A large number of explosives was dropped. Rebel sharpshooters and machine guns trained an anti-aircraft fire on the planes. Two Mexicans were reported killed by the bombers.

The conference at which the surrender was arranged was attended by Consul Avelayda, representing the Mexican government, and Col. Jesus Lozano and Maj. Rosendo Franco, representing the revolution. Brig. Gen. Cocheu also was present.

PICK SONORA CHIEF

BY JOHN CORRY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
MEXICO CITY, April 30.—In anticipation of the complete domination of the state of Sonora within the next two weeks, a permanent commission of the Mexican congress in special session today appointed Francisco Elias, cousin of Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles, provisional governor of the state.

Apparently the only body of troops from which any possible further resistance may be expected is that of Gen. Juan Carrasco, now entrenched in the hills about Asola, two miles from the military colony at Oaxaca, Sonora. Gen. Juan Almansan arrived at Oaxaca today and personally arranged his troops all along the probable battle front. He is prepared to storm the rebel positions which block the way to Agua Prieta, his objective.

Cavalry under the command of Gen. Eguino Serrato clashed with the rebels today near Oaxaca, and desultory firing continued for some time.

Hear Escobar Has Plan.
Chapultepec castle today furnished a list of the prominent rebel leaders who have already crossed the American border, but the list does not include Gen. Jose Guadalupe Escobar, Gen. Roberto Cruz, or Gen. Manrique, who are, however, reported here to be in the United States. The official list includes Gen. Ricardo Topete, Gen. Faustino Topete, Jesus Lazarraga, Gen. Ramon Iturbe, Deputy Alfredo Bono, and Tomas Balderama, mayor of Nogales.

The march upon Hermosillo, capital of the state of Sonora, continued today and it is expected that within the next two or three days Hermosillo will be occupied by Mexican federal troops and the former state officials not connected with the revolution will return to the capital.

President Portes Gil today addressed the school children, teachers and professors through the press, telling them that they were messengers of peace and the hope for future tranquility and greatness of the Mexican nation.

CONVICTS TO DIE FOR STAGING RIOT ON THANKSGIVING

San Francisco, Cal., April 30.—(U. P.)—Five of the six Folsom prison convicts involved in the Thanksgiving day riot of 1927, in which 15 persons were killed, must hang, the State Supreme court decided today.

The fate of Anthony Brown, San Francisco burglar; Eugene Crosby, Oakland bank robber; James H. Grege, Fresno murderer; Walter Burke, Sacramento theater robber, and Roy E. Stokes, Los Angeles burglar, has been in the hands of the Supreme court since last November, when their appeal from the death sentence was filed.

The sixth convict, M. Stewart, Los Angeles forger, did not file his appeal with the rest of the group.

Newton, Ia., April 30.—(AP)—A three day race with death, by boat, airplane, and train, ended at 7 a. m. today when Mrs. F. E. Jasper and Miss Stella McCord reached the bedside of their father, M. A. McCord, to find him very ill but a little stronger.

The daughters entered an airplane in New York a few hours after the liner Baltic, on which they returned from a European trip, docked yesterday.

They arrived here by train from Chicago.

BRITISH LABOR PLANS MORE TAX ON BIG INCOMES

Favors Nationalization of Farm Lands.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
LONDON, April 30.—Higher income tax on large incomes, nationalization of the mines and minerals, public control of agricultural lands and more generous maintenance for the unemployed are among the chief proposals of the Labor party in an election manifesto which was issued tonight.

The manifesto, which was signed by Ramsay MacDonald and other Labor leaders, denies the Labor party is bolshevik or communist.

"It is opposed to the force of revolution and confiscation as the means of establishing a new social order," it says. "It believes in the ordered progress of democratic methods."

Promotes Better Housing.
The Laborites pledge if they come into power to deal immediately and practically with the unemployment situation, proposing to undertake the housing and slum clearance schemes, land drainage and reclamation, electrification, reorganization of the railroads and transport, new roads and bridges improvement, and reforestation.

Internationally, "Labor welcomes the initiative of the United States on the reduction of armaments; and will press for a speedy completion of a disarmament treaty." The Labor party also promises to reestablish the diplomatic and commercial relations with Russia.

Ask Nationalization of Land.
In dealing with the question of agriculture, the manifesto says "the land must pass under public control. The farmers should have security of tenure, fair rents, capital and credit assistance, a system of organized marketing, and stability in prices on the main crops and products."

Father of Dead Baby Sues Milk Seller; Gets $6,772
Marion, Ill., April 30.—[Special.]—A jury in Williamson county Circuit court this afternoon awarded damages of $6,772 to Earl Bowman of White Ash against the Woodley Stores, Inc., for the death of his 19 months old baby, said to have been caused by drinking condensed milk bought from the company.

BALDWIN DEFENDS HIS SETTLEMENT OF DEBT TO U. S.

Terms Best Possible, He Tells Bankers.

BY JOHN STEELE.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

LONDON, April 30.—A vigorous defense of his funding of the British debt to the United States was made by Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin tonight at the British Bankers' association's annual banquet. The premier said the settlement secured for England stable currency, stability in exchange, comparative stability of prices and wages, and a steady and uninterrupted fall in the cost of living.

"The settlement of the American debt was one of the most important steps we have ever taken," Mr. Baldwin asserted. "I would remind our critics of the position. We gave our bond to America. It was a very strict bond. It was to pay on demand with interest at the rate of 6 per cent."

Sought Best Terms.
"Our accumulated debt when I went to America to settle it was approximately $4,000,000,000, including the accrued interest. I went to America to get the best terms I could, and after a long discussion with the debt-funding commission got them to reduce the interest on the advance from 6 to 4 1/2 per cent and fix the future interest at 3 per cent for ten years and 3 1/2 per cent for subsequent years."

"The payment of about $250,000,000 a year in interest alone was reduced by the funding to about $165,000,000 for ten years and about $190,000,000 after that, covering both the interest and the redemption."

Under the circumstances then existing, the premier declared, the settlement was not unfair from a business point of view. "That there is any alternative to fulfilling our word I have always denied," he said. "If we had postponed it indefinitely, either paying $150,000,000 a year or repudiating it in the hope of making a better bargain, we should never have made any progress in the restoration of the currencies of Europe or have restored the credit of the city of London to where it stands today."

Credit Is Good.
By England's restoration of the gold standard and the policy adopted by the government, Mr. Baldwin said, there had been considerable financial advantages. Foreign funds were coming and staying in London, foreign funds were also being raised in London, while the credit of the city of London was standing at a high point throughout the world, as high as it ever had stood.

"Industry has got to be financed either by the banks or the government," he said, "and as long as I am prime minister I shall set my face against the government going into the financing industry."

EARTH'S CENTER LIQUID GLASS, SAYS GEOLOGIST

Harvard Man Paints New Picture for Scientists.

New York, April 30.—[Special.]—A sea of dense liquid glass on which our continents float and slide, forms the interior of the earth, Dr. Reginald A. Daly, professor of geology at Harvard university, today told members of the Geological Society of America at the opening session of that organization's annual eastern convention at Fordham university.

At the center of the earth, reaching outward to about one-half of its girth, is a core which exists under the tremendous pressure of fifty million pounds a square inch and is so enormously hot that it is more than 50,000 degrees centigrade, according to the new picture of the earth drawn for the group of scientists by the Harvard geologist.

Surrounded by Shells.
This core of the earth, Dr. Daly explained, is surrounded by successive shells, each relatively homogeneous, but not too sharply bounded. The outer shell forms the earth's crust on which we live. It is some 30 miles deep.

The commonest rock of this outer continental shell is some variety of granite; that of the underlying layer is a heavier, dark colored basalt, similar to some of the volcanic lavas. Beneath that, probably surrounding the actual core of the earth is a shell consisting of material not unlike the metallic iron of the meteorites.

X-Raying the Earth.
In advancing his explanation of what lies below the shallow skin of the earth, long a riddle with which science has been grappling with little success, Dr. Daly said his theory of a liquid glass interior is based on a study of "X-raying the earth." He suggested that his theory may bring disagreement from some scientists, who still adhere to the thought that the earth is a molten ball of fiery material with only a very thin crust between man and realistic hellfire. But, he asserted, it is the most logical explanation that geology can offer.

DEATH REED MANSLAUGHTER.
A manslaughter verdict was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday in the death of Jacob Ecker, 28 years old, a detective for the Michigan Central railroad, who suffered a broken neck when three Negroes shoved him from a moving freight train at 15th street and the Michigan Central tracks on Monday.

FORECAST FULFILLED—$1,100 BRINGS $10,500

The developers of "Rogers Park South" made a forecast of the profits to be made in this community that seemed overoptimistic to many. But the forecast was, if anything, an underestimate of actual happenings, and bears irrefutable testimony to the fact that, "where Harman goes—profits follow."

A residence lot in Rogers Park South was sold at $1,100. Chicago's 1928 Blue Book of Chicago Land Values lists this same property as having a value of $10,500—having increased 780% since sold by the Harman organization.

Through repeated instances similar to this, shrewd investors have learned to be on the alert for new forecasts by the Harman National Realty Trust, which do not rest upon the element of luck, but which depend upon the Harman method of thorough development to bring back profits.

OLD DOC CARTER AVOIDS COURT BY STAYING IN JAIL

Sway the Judge.

Old Doc Franklin O. Carter failed again yesterday to appear in court to answer to charges of practicing medicine without a license. His attorney protested that the doc had a good excuse because he was in jail, but Judge Alfred O. Erickson took no chances. He forfeited Carter's $200 bond and issued a capias for his arrest. Dwight Anderson, assistant director of the state board of registration and education, which is prosecuting Carter, said he believed that the old doc stayed in jail on purpose to avoid a hearing.

Found Ready for Business.
"The police and I went down to Carter's office this morning," he told the court. "We found him in his office. His name was on the door, and he was ready for business, despite the previous warnings of the court. So we locked him up. At noon he said his attorney was on the way with a $200 bond to get him out. But he apparently changed his mind, thinking he could get a lengthy continuance if he stayed in jail." "Anyway, my client will probably want a jury trial," said the old doc's attorney.

"He can't get away with that," said the judge. "He probably thinks I'll assign the case to the jury court and there will be another long delay. No, he'll be arraigned here tomorrow, and the jury trial will start immediately."

"Neurologist" Is Fined.
Later the judge fined Edmund A. Hart, self-styled "neurologist," $100 for practicing without a license. Hart said he told his clients he wasn't a doctor and did not use medicine. However, a witness denied this.

ALDERMEN RAP CHICAGO PHONE SERVICE, RATES

to Fight Suit.

Chicago's telephone service was attacked yesterday by several aldermen when the council finance committee debated the request of Corporation Counsel Ettelson for funds with which to finance rate litigation with the Illinois Bell Telephone company in federal court. The original request of $45,000 had been pared to $250,000 when the administration aldermen began their battle for the appropriation.

"The telephone subscribers continually get the worst of it when dealing with the company," declared Ald. E. A. Cronson (4th). "The subscriber cannot tell from the bill just what is charged against him. If he complains the telephone is taken out. The company is always right."

Action Is Deferred.
Other aldermen supported Cronson's viewpoint, asserting that the city should have funds with which to fight the company. Action on the appropriation was deferred.

The corporation counsel's office was forced to take a cut in its 1929 appropriation. The finance committee in making up a retrenchment of $5,000,000 with supplementary budgets.

In 1923 the city's law offices spent $1,223,029 besides the sums allotted in street improvement bond funds. The finance committee voted the corporation counsel $1,010,640 for 1929, but Mr. Ettelson obtained $188,525 from the bond funds. Yesterday's request for $250,000 and a demand for $308,000 for use in the elevated fare case would make his 1929 budget total $1,568,640, an increase of 28 per cent over 1923.

Attacks "L." Valuation.
In the 44th session of the elevated fare case yesterday Congressman Frank Reid, chief counsel for the city, attacked the valuation of $142,387,708 placed by the Chicago Rapid Transit company upon its properties.

NAMED ON INDIAN BUREAU.
Washington, D. C., April 30.—President Hoover has approved the appointment of J. Henry Eastwood of Philadelphia as assistant commissioner of Indian affairs.

STEGE REDUCES MAN POWER; TO RELY ON BRAINS

The personnel of the detective bureau will be reduced beginning this morning, Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege announced last night. Getting results by brain power instead of man power is to be the new policy at headquarters, Stege said.

"The record of every man assigned to this work will be distributed through the districts."

"This is only the beginning," Stege declared. "The record of every man at the bureau will be scrutinized; those who fail to produce results will be weeded out and sent back to the districts. In the future we will rely on brains instead of numbers to keep down crime."

For Big Profits and Quick Returns— BUY GREATER CHICAGO ACRES

Acres today—city lots tomorrow

Acres at The Rate of $495 Per Acre

Terms: $12 a month

(Down payment to suit your convenience)

This property is located on super highway with bus line direct to Loop and also on main line of one of the best and fastest of all the Chicago suburban transportation systems—convenient to station, 43 minutes to the Loop—express service—low monthly fare. At the edge of one of Chicago's largest and most thriving suburbs. Stone roads and electricity installed. Parcels sold in 2 1/2, 3 acres and smaller, each acre being equal to eight ordinary city lots. The land is high and rolling and is near schools, stores, churches, theatres, banks and all modern conveniences. Good academies and colleges a short distance away. This is one of the last available acreage tracts on this line of transportation at any price.

Buy These Acres TODAY—and Watch Your Dollars Grow

You can live on this land now and pay for it with your rent money, and you can raise fruits, poultry and vegetables to cut down your living costs and live much better than you can in Chicago proper. Later you should be able to cut up your land into city lots and sell each lot for as much as you now pay for a whole acre. Such land should pay you big profits on every foot you buy. Chicago's tremendous growth is turning acres into fortunes. In the last few years many of our purchasers have made big money through the increasing values of their land which they bought with a few dollars down.

In 1917 one of our customers bought 5 acres for $2,450 and recently refused $25,000.00 for a 100 x 150 foot corner off of this property.

Another customer who paid us $5,300 for 10 acres of land in 1924 sold it in 1926 for $19,500.00, at which time he had only paid in $1,500.

Other acres that we sold in 1919 and 1920 for $800 each are now selling for as much per lot as the purchaser paid for an acre. We have hundreds of other instances of profits on our land bought only a few years ago.

You can make similar profits—and you need only a few dollars to start with

CHEMISTS ASKED TO FIND FORMULA FOR FARM RELIEF

Grange Master Discusses Problem of Surpluses.

Columbus, O., April 30.—(AP)—Chemists can provide more "farm relief" than any legislation congress may pass, Louis J. Taber, Columbus, National Grange master, told the American Chemical society today.

With new uses for agricultural products are found by the chemist, he said, the "burdensome surpluses" will disappear, and these surpluses are a great part of the agricultural problem.

Mr. Taber also said that agriculture turned to chemistry to find cheaper ways of detection of adulteration of foods and to find more effective ways to combat pests such as the corn borer, boll weevil, and the Mediterranean fruit fly.

Present Uses Cited.

Mal. T. P. Walker of Terre Haute, Ind., told of the use already made by industry of farm products and by-products.

More than 50 products are made from corn, through chemical processes, Mr. Walker said, including soap, glycerine, salad oil, glue, rubber substitutes, fertilizers, sirup, starch, and many others. He listed paint, paper, celluloid, rayon, smokeless powder, and artificial leather as among the cotton products; ethyl alcohol, and insulating board from sugar; and glue, buttons, cellulose handles, combs, and other articles from casein, the solid portion of milk.

Color Secret Is Revealed.

The secret of some of the world's most beautiful colors, the famous ultramarines that once cost $30 a pound, was revealed by Prof. M. F. M. Jaeger of the University of Groningen, Netherlands, who now is nonresident chemistry lecturer at Cornell.

X-ray examination, he said, has disclosed a "wandering atom" that moves about constantly in the ultramarine substance and causes the brilliant reflection of color. The structure of ultramarines is like a honeycomb. The walls are formed of electrically charged oxygen, aluminum and silicon ions. The cells or spaces within these walls contain the wandering atoms or ions. If these are of sulphur, the color is blue. If they are of selenium compounds, the ultramarine is a blood red.

TODAY'S MAY DAY MINUS THE USUAL RUSH OF MOVING

It's Also Anniversary of Fair's Opening.

With Chicago's usual moving day rush of May 1 virtually a thing of the past, managers of transfer companies and thousands of flat dwellers who were in the habit of seeking new quarters on this day looked last night with equanimity upon predictions of equally weather during the next twenty-four hours.

At best Chicago may expect lowering clouds, with an ever present threat of rain and wind, according to government weather forecasts. Boats on Lakes Michigan and Superior may expect high winds and rain, the forecasters declared.

Anniversary of Fair Opening.

In the midst of the complacency induced by the absence of the usual moving day hurry and bustle somebody remembered that today is the thirty-sixth anniversary of the opening of the great Columbian exposition. On May 1, 1893, President Grover Cleveland, waving his high topped hat over the heads of throngs massed about the exposition palace, pressed the electric button which set the fair in motion.

A collection of photographs, arranged especially to commemorate the world's fair anniversary, will be on display all day in the rooms of the Chicago Historical society.

Despite the unfriendly weather forecast, various Chicagoans insisted that the balminess of yesterday meant that spring is actually here. Among the optimistic ones was Policeman Michael Murphy of Austin station, who found a 6 weeks old lamb tramping about a vacant lot on his beat. Failing to find the lost lamb's owner, Murphy locked it in a cell at the station.

Hurt "Stuffed Flat" Racket.

Spreading the moving rush over a several months' period has resulted in sorrow for promoters of the "stuffed flat" racket, it was announced at the offices of the Chicago Better Business bureau. Formerly these racketeers reaped a harvest by selling cheap furniture, "stuffed" into a flat, as bargains on the pretense that the owner was leaving the city, the bureau reported. With the drop in demand for new flats on May 1, the business has declined.

OWNER OF NIGHT CLUB FINED $100 ON RUM CHARGE

Elsie Cole, who aspired to be the Texas Guinan of Chicago, pleaded guilty to a charge of possessing liquor in her night club at 14 East Huron street and was fined $100 yesterday afternoon by Federal Judge Fred L. Wham. Miss Cole, during the morning session, announced her intention to fight the case and refused to admit her guilt, but later changed her mind on the advice of her attorney, Ralph Stern.

The night club hostess, who closed her establishment shortly after it was raided several months ago, was charged with the sale of liquor as well as possession, but the sale count was dropped when she consented to plead guilty to the lesser charge. She wept when the fine was assessed and outside the courtroom proclaimed her innocence to reporters, saying she only pleaded guilty because her lawyer thought it best.

AURORA TRACK CLOSED BY HORSEMEN'S STRIKE
WHITE SOX WIN FOURTH IN ROW FROM CLEVELAND, 8-4KAMM HIDES BALL; PRESTO—
A TRIPLE PLAY!Bill's Legerdemain Catches Jamieson.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

These White Sox are full of tricks. They cheated off a series of funny and healthy base hits yesterday and stretched their winning streak to four straight over the Cleveland Indians, the margin being 8 to 4, but that is only part of the story.

There were other parts involving scintillating plays and still another part in which the visitors were surprised to see themselves victimized by Capt. Willie Kamm and the bewildered, hidden ball trick, which in itself is enough encouragement for one afternoon. But this was doubly painful to the Sox because it completed a triple play and occurred at a time when the home team foolishly thought themselves in the midst of a rally that would tie the score.

Sox Get 3 Runs.

Capt. Kamm's trickery was exposed to the Clevelanders in the seventh of numerous happenings preceded in the first three frames the Sox by a series of bounding, quivering and very clean clouts managed to produce five runs off Hudlin. They scored no more until the eighth. Meanwhile Young Lefty Welland, using his first appearance of the season, was sure along by light report and only three runs were scored against him in six innings. As when a hit opened the seventh run, Kamm decided the time had come. Welland went away and Lefty Dugan took charge.

The gentleman who caused Welland's banishment with a single was Duggan, who swung for Hudlin. Dugan stepped in to Jamieson, batted a single to center. Hudlin put the return throw to third and Jamieson snatched to second on it. This looked very much like arrangements for two runs that would have made a 5 to 5 tie. It proved only the preliminary for the side splitting triple killing.

The Stage Is Set.

And batted a grounder to Cline, who moved, so threw to first to get the batter. As soon as Cline moved the ball toward third. He realized the impossibility of two men occupying a base, so he started to the plate. When he was about halfway to the counting station, Cline, after Lind was retired, pegged to Cline. This put Hudlin in the lead and, after the usual run, he was tipped. Kamm getting the putout due to third. By this time Jamieson was resting on the far corner.

Instead of handing Dugan the ball Kamm buried it in his glove and continued back to his usual place. Dugan walked toward the knob as if using the tools with which to remove work. Not suspecting any man was about, Jamieson took a lead off third and Kamm immediately moved at him and jabbed him in the side with the ball to complete the close way killing.

Hoffman Takes It Clean.

In the way of sparkling one man, Clarence Hoffman, the Coast Guard, topped the competition. In the second round with a man on the side bag Fonseca drove a high fly to center. Hoffman ran in a bit and suddenly noticed the ball had gotten over his head. He started back and the ball was still behind him when it came down, but he ran to his hand and got it. Lind

MURDERERS' ROW
SLUGS, BUT REDS
BEAT CUBS, 5 TO 4Cincinnati Scores Two Runs in Ninth.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Cincinnati, O., April 30.—Murderers' row went in for drama this afternoon in a great big way, but some of the supporting cast was found wanting so in the end the Reds beat the Cubs, 5 to 4. Fred Blake hurled the full game.

The first thriller was staged in the eighth when the Reds leading, 1 to 0. Previously not a Cub had reached second but Hornsby blew off the lid with a magnificent homer into the right field stands. Back Wilson followed by stretching a pop fly into a triple and scored on a single by Stephens, making the score 2 to 1.

The Reds came right back in the ninth. They scored two runs on a walk, a double and Engle's powerful relay heave over the boxes into the grand stand. The score at the start of the ninth was Reds, 3; Cubs, 2.

Murderers' row was not through, though. Beck walked and moved to second on Cuyler's sacrifice bunt and to third on Hornsby's infield out. Wilson doubled to right, scoring Beck with the tying run. Stephens was given an intentional pass. Grimm doubled to right, scoring Wilson and putting Stephens on third. Critz threw out Angley. The score was Cubs, 4; Reds, 3.

Then the last of the ninth and the ball game. Furdy batted for Ford and walked. Swanson ran for Furdy. Lucas batted for Gooch and bounced a single off Hornsby's skis, Swanson reaching third. Stripp batted for May and singled to left, scoring Swanson with the tying run.

Scores Winning Run.

Pittner ran for Lucas and stopped at second on the Stripp hit. Zittmann bunted to Blake who made the play at third but the umpire judged the throw late. The bases were full with no one out. Pittner scored the winning run off Critz's sacrifice fly. The Reds had won a hair-raiser.

The Reds and Cubs play their last game here tomorrow and Guy Bush will have to grab his third victory to beat the able Cuban vet. Adolfo Luque, for the Cubs to get an even break in the series.

Our boys had to work mighty hard to keep the Reds from scoring the last runs of the game in the second inning. Allen doubled to left. Kelly grounded to English and Allen was run down between second and third. English to Beck to Hornsby. Duggan singled to center. Kelly went to third ahead of Wilson's throw and Duggan reached second on the maneuver. Ford grounded to English and Kelly was run down between third and home, English to Angley to Beck to Angley to English. Gooch was given an intentional pass, filling the bases. May struck out.

One of the best catches of the season, a running, leaping masterpiece by Cuyler which robbed Walker of a triple, started off trouble in the third. Zittmann struck out but Critz singled to right and went to second on a wild pitch. It was at this point that Kiki put on his show. Allen then fled to Stephens.

Double Plays Hall Cubs.

You may be wondering what the Cubs were doing in the first four innings. The answer is: They were hitting. Kelly opened with a triple off the left field wall and Duggan walked. Angley let a strike go past him into the screen, Kelly scoring and Duggan taking second. Ford struck out. Angley picked up Gooch's single in front of the plate and threw him out, and Hornsby threw out May.

The Cubs shook off the double play curse in the fifth—but in what fashion. Hornsby and Wilson fled to Walker and Stephens bounced to Kelly.

"HERO WORSHIP."

FRIEND HARVEY: We have a good team in the Cubs, and in my opinion they should win the pennant this year—provided the fans and the newspapers lay off this "hero worship" stuff.

The most powerful racing car, missing on a couple of cylinders, would be a flop against a well-tuned Silver. A high-powered airplane motor cannot function perfectly if its most insignificant part is not coordinating. The same thing applies to the most powerful baseball club.

If the Cubs are to win, players, fans, and the press must realize this will not be possible through individual effort of one or two or three players, but only through perfect coordination and harmonious and diligent effort on the part of every man from the top of the batting order right through to the bottom.

Let us all think and talk of the Cubs as a team. Let this individual "hero worship" be dissipated before it generates jealousy among the players, for there is nothing that greases the path to discord and failure as the right of jealousy on the other and committed journalism with malice aforethought.

Furthermore, the official blurb speaks of Mr. Tilden as one of the greatest international players of all time and is accompanied by a subscription blank inviting whom it may concern to purchase the magazine. So the tennis association itself is now capitalizing Mr. Tilden's reputation as an amateur tennis player in a manner which hitherto has been held to be particularly offensive under the law.

If there is any selling power in Mr. Tilden's distinction as a great tennis player, the association is now willing to take advantage of it, although Mr. Tilden, himself, barely escaped with a suspended sentence upon his conviction for doing the same thing only a year ago.

In a sense, the association may be said to have sacrificed some degree of its own amateurism in order to heighten the amateurism of Mr. Tilden. The fact of the matter is that these sports magazines rarely pay enough money for articles to jeopardize the amateur standing of the journalists who write them.

It is even thinkable that William is writing his place for nothing because he is an inveterate journalist and, as one who suffers from the same compulsion, I can state that your confirmed journalist cannot resist the temptation to tell what he thinks, or thinks he thinks. Mr. Tilden has been severely hampered by the association in his efforts to do this for the open market.

Strange Stand for Net Group.

If they are paying him at the rate generally observed by sport magazines and the house organs of amateur athletic organizations, they have finally hit upon a means of reducing his professionalism to a harmless minimum. And if William now becomes a regular staff member of the paper on these terms, it must be acknowledged at last that he loves his art.

It is strange to find the association frankly and openly conning at Mr. Tilden's journalism because it was never his acting or his cigarette test, but always his work for the newspaper syndicates. Perhaps that was because he wrote better than he acted or smoked cigarettes. At any rate, the association entertained a suspicion, the syndicate salesmen, in their talks with the editors around the country, emphasized Mr. Tilden's reputation as an amateur athlete, to the neglect of his literary charm.

It is another application of the Jimmy Valentine theory. Writing for the papers, Mr. Tilden was an enemy of orderly tennis society, but now that the association itself has gone in for journalism, he slips his finger tips, taps the keys of his typewriter and turns his troublesome talent to noble account.

I take it that journalism is a monster of so frightful men, as to be hated nearly but not seen. Yet, seen too off, familiar with her face, we first admire, then pity, then embrace.

Woodland Band Passes.

Johnny McInerney, one of the founders of the Woodland Bands, has passed. This is sorrowful news to all who knew Johnny as the life of those old gatherings in the Bard's room at White Sox park and the Wisconsin hunting resort when the White Sox were winning pennants. Great times had those bands, and none had a better time or contributed more to the occasion than John McInerney.

JOURNALISM NOT ALWAYS A VICE,
TILDEN FINDSIt Depends for Whom You Write, It Seems.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, April 30.—After a residence covering several years, the U. S. Lawn Tennis association has compromised with the vice of journalism to the extent of inviting William T. Tilden to compose an essay for the official organ of the association, aptly named "Tennis."

The announcement not only reveals that Mr. Tilden will write with the sanction and connivance of the association but adds that he will indulge in a complete forecast of the Davis cup play of 1929, which comes dangerously close to expediting the most heinous form of journalism there is.

In fact, it is expediting because the perpetrator sat down with a pile of record books on one hand and a sheaf of clippings on the other and committed journalism with malice aforethought.

Furthermore, the official blurb speaks of Mr. Tilden as one of the greatest international players of all time and is accompanied by a subscription blank inviting whom it may concern to purchase the magazine. So the tennis association itself is now capitalizing Mr. Tilden's reputation as an amateur tennis player in a manner which hitherto has been held to be particularly offensive under the law.

Tune Up for British Open

GULLANE, Scotland, April 30.—(AP)—Retreating northward from the Yorkshire moors, where they were vanquished in last week's Ryder cup matches, the somewhat dazed American golf pros have crossed the Scottish border and started practice for the British open championship, starting May 6.

The Muirfield course of the honorable company of Edinburgh golfers presented an animated picture today with most of the world famous golfers either playing full rounds or practicing shots.

In the clubhouse half a dozen Anglo-Americans, MacDonald Smith, Jim Barnes, Bobby Cruickshank, and others who have been practicing here for a week, were on hand to welcome the Americans and hear the story of how the great men had fallen before George Duncan's determined band.

Duncan will lead his triumphant team on to Muirfield, hoping to duplicate in medal competition the British victory at match play.

DEMANDS MADE BY TURF GROUP
ARE REFUSED22 Day Meeting May Be Called Off.

BY FRENCH LANE.

There'll be no April call of "Bones and Saddles" from the bugs at the Aurora race course this afternoon, where the Chicago turf season was scheduled to open at 2:15 o'clock.

For horsemen, led by their secretary, Lawrence D. Jones of Chicago Heights, went on strike and refused to enter their steeds in the seven races scheduled on the opening program. At 4 o'clock last night, eight hours later than the entries were to have closed, horsemen had refused to enter horses. Clifford R. Trimble, general manager of the Aurora track, announced the opening day's program called off.

What Horsemen Demand.

The strike was an aftermath of the threatened walkout of horsemen at Hawthorne last summer. The horsemen made three demands on the Aurora track management. They were:

- 1 That the present feed monopoly which exists at the track be removed so that all owners may purchase feed at any place or from any dealer he elects.
- 2 That the minimum purse offered at the course shall not be less than $1,000.
- 3 That the management deduct 1 per cent from all first moneys from all events, to be credited to and paid to the Thoroughbred Horse association, except that such deductions should not be made when the owner files a written objection with the racing secretary.

Track Agrees to Feed Demand.

Early in the day General Manager Trimble agreed to the demands concerning the sale of feed.

Last night the striking horsemen, standing around on the street corners of Aurora and at the entrance of the track, admitted that higher purses had not been advertised by the Aurora association. Last season only two races of $300 were offered each day. The others were for a purse of $1,000 or more. This season from four to five $300 races were on each day's program.

"We had presumed the purses would at least be as large as last season," Mr. Jones said. He admitted there had been no previous agreement for minimum purses of $1,000.

Blue Larkspur, the Kentucky Derby favorite, made his first start and scored his first victory in an $800 race at Lexington early last week.

Dues Are Main Issue.

It was the collection of 1 per cent from all first moneys which caused the trouble at Hawthorne last season. At that time the horsemen's strike was broken. And the collection of this money appeared to be the paramount issue in the trouble at Aurora yesterday.

Last night leaders on both sides declared they could not forecast the outcome. About the only thing they were certain of was that there will be no racing today.

Predictions were heard that the entire meeting of 22 days will be called off. With the Illinois Turf association, of which all tracks in the state are members, standing squarely behind the Aurora management the horsemen were advanced that this body would welcome the opportunity to sacrifice the spring season in order to break up the Thoroughbred Horsemen's association, which the horsemen had declared was making unreasonable demands.

On the other hand, Jones and Charles E. Marvin, association president asserted their demands were in keeping with the purpose of the association, which they declared was the protection of the interests of all owners, trainers, and breeders of thoroughbred horses.

The Fate of the Horses.

But it was those better acquainted with the class of turf establishments quartered there it was believed the complete abandonment of the Aurora meeting would find most of the owners in such financial distress that they would be unable to meet the expenses of moving on to another racing center. During 22 days of racing $125,000 would be distributed among them.

Officials of the Illinois Turf association made it clear that if the horsemen cause the Aurora meeting to be declared off they will not be welcomed at any other track in the state.

No meeting of the state turf governing board had been called last night, but it was indicated a session may be held today if the trouble is not adjusted.

The entry box will remain open as usual this morning. "If the races programmed for Thursday do not fill this morning we will order all owners who refuse to enter their horses to vacate the stalls they now occupy," Trimble said. "If they don't move, we'll move them out."

Leaders among the striking horsemen were reported to be Dan Jones of Missouri, E. E. Major, C. B. Irwin, and R. Padgett, although Secretary Jones declared that 75 per cent of the horsemen at Aurora were members of the association.

Section 10 of the Illinois Turf association constitution provides that if the horsemen cause the Aurora meeting to be declared off they will not be welcomed at any other track in the state.

The entry box will remain open as usual this morning. "If the races programmed for Thursday do not fill this morning we will order all owners who refuse to enter their horses to vacate the stalls they now occupy," Trimble said. "If they don't move, we'll move them out."

Leaders among the striking horsemen were reported to be Dan Jones of Missouri, E. E. Major, C. B. Irwin, and R. Padgett, although Secretary Jones declared that 75 per cent of the horsemen at Aurora were members of the association.

Section 10 of the Illinois Turf association constitution provides that if the horsemen cause the Aurora meeting to be declared off they will not be welcomed at any other track in the state.

No meeting of the state turf governing board had been called last night, but it was indicated a session may be held today if the trouble is not adjusted.

DOUBLE PAY WINS FEATURE EVENT ON JAMAICA CARD

War Flyer Runs Second, Mi Vida Third.

Jamaica, N. Y., April 30.—[Special.]—Double Pay won the Long Beach claiming handicap, Jamaica feature race, today to the surprise of nearly all at the track, except the veteran trainer, Tom McCrory, who made the son of Bachelor's Double an added starter when he saw what he thought was a spot. The difference of opinion that makes horse racing caused several thousand spectators to think they saw the same thing, but the spot was Mi Vida. These experts made this fellow a 13 to 20 odds on favorite, while Double Pay went begging at about 5 to 1.

Like several other sure things, such as the unlikability of the Titanic, the unexpected happened. The Titanic sank and so did Mi Vida. Double Pay dashed home in front. War Flyer was second, Mi Vida struggled in third. The winners share of the purse was $3,050.

In the Hopalong handicap, a surprise occurred when the Fair Stables' Bird, 5 to 6 favorite, was beaten. Adams, a consistent campaigner, at New Orleans and supposedly one of those faded winter horses, was the winner, by a head from Bird.

YANKEES DEFEAT SENATORS, 10-9, IN EXTRA INNING

Helmach Wins Own Game with Double.

New York, April 30.—(AP)—The Washington Senators waged a hard, uphill fight against New York today, but the Yankees managed to win in the tenth, 10 to 9. Each team called upon three pitchers, and Fred Helmach, last of the Yankee defenders, won his own game in the tenth with a hot double which ripped through Gohl's hands, permitting Durocher to score. The shortstop had advanced on a sacrifice.

Washington outlived the Yankees by 17 to 13, but had fifteen men left on base. The tenth was the only inning in which the Senators failed to guide the pitcher.

South Parks Golfers Begin Season Today

BY HARLAND ROHM.
 Jackson and Marquette parks golf courses will be opened officially at 5 o'clock this morning, though golfers will be barred from the permanent greens until later. The new rates of 20 cents on the nine hole course at Jackson park and 40 cents on both 18 hole courses will be in effect and starting turns will be regulated by the registration system instead of by a "bag line."

Relative to the increase in price George T. Donohue, superintendent of the south parks playgrounds, offered figures to prove the necessity of the increase. "Last year," he said, "218,000 golfers played the three courses, paying $52,000 in greens' fees. Operating expenses, including upkeep, salaries of checkers and policemen, new tees and such items totaled $76,000, which is $25,000 more than the receipts. Any surplus produced by the higher fees this year will be put back in the course."

The North Shore league will meet at luncheon at the Bankers' Lunch club this noon to make plans for the season of inter club competition.

The Lake Shore Athletic club has scheduled four club tournaments to be played at the Woodridge club at Lake. The first will be held Thursday, June 27, at which time the qualifying round for the club championship will be played, the low 16 to qualify.

The match play rounds will be held in connection with the other tournaments, July 25, Aug. 23 and Sept. 26. Alden B. Swift of Glen View won the championship cup given by N. H. Van Sickle last year. All tournaments will be held on Thursday.

Frank Garrity, assistant to Jimmy Meehan, pro at Riverside the last three years, is signed as professional at Elmhurst. Elmhurst is the new name of the club formerly known as Glen Acres. James Althoff, pro at Elmhurst last year, has been appointed manager of the club.

The Cook County American Legion's annual tournament will be held this year at Edgewood Valley, the home of the champions. La Grange post, No. 41, which plays at Edgewood, has won the championship the last three years.

Spring Flowers and Birds Now Brighten Woods

BY BOB BECKER.
 Spring flowers and migrating birds offer many a spring "poem" to the hiker who will get into the country in northern Illinois these days. There are all kinds of interesting things to see in meadow, forest, and along lake or stream at this time of the year. The birds are putting on a regular three ring circus, pickered and pan fish are biting for the early season anglers, and in many localities the forest floor is carpeted with spring flowers.

Here is a sample of the program which the outdoors can produce as April gives way to May. We hiked along the shore of Lake Michigan the other day and in a few minutes noted these features:

A red headed woodpecker with his head half inside of a newly cut nesting cavity surveying his work and looking much pleased with the new home. A lone merganser (fish duck) diving in Lake Michigan about 200 feet from shore and apparently making a meal out of small fish. Hepaticas—purple, pink, white, and other delicate shades—above the leaves in the woods. Bloodroot blossoms, as fresh and white as newly fallen snow, just about done with their blossoming act as their petals dropped off. Trilliums, their tall white flowers some eight inches above the ground, and of the woods like snow. A brown thrasher putting on a vocal solo.

One of the most interesting sections of northern Illinois for the hiker who will put on his old clothes is that stretch of dunes, woods, marsh, and Lake Michigan shore north of Waukegan which has been proposed as a state park. It is a natural feeding and nesting ground for many birds, flowers are abundant, and, all in all, this area is well worth seeing. It should be preserved as a playground and bird refuge.

DEMPSEY ACCUSES SINGER MANAGER OF RUNNING OUT
 New York, April 30.—(U.P.)—Jack Dempsey issued a formal statement today accusing Hymie Caplan, manager of Al Singer, of running out on a match between the Bronx featherweight and Kid Chocolate at Ebbets field this summer.

Dempsey has signed Chocolate, but claims Caplan failed to live up to his promise by signing with Madison Square Garden under the pretext that the proposed bout would draw better at Yankee Stadium than at Ebbets field.

"The match is a natural and will draw wherever it is staged," Dempsey said. "Caplan is merely running out of the match."

A. T. & T. MELON IN BOND RIGHTS IS $106,000,000

U. S. Steel's Income Best Since War.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Two of America's giant industrial corporations, the American Telephone and Telegraph company and the United States Steel corporation, made financial history yesterday. In one of the largest bond offerings since the war the American Telephone company put a new issue of $106,000,000 convertible 4 1/2 per cent bonds. The United States Steel corporation reported the largest earnings for the first quarter of any year since the war, with earnings on its common stocks more than double those of the initial quarter of 1928.

The American Telephone stockholders authorized a new issue of $106,000,000 convertible 4 1/2 per cent bonds. The directors announced that $106,000,000 of the bonds will be offered to stockholders of record May 15 at par in the ratio of $100 in bonds for each six shares of stock held. This issue of bonds has not been underwritten by any banking syndicate, but will be handled by the company direct with its stockholders.

Convertible Into Common. The bonds are convertible into common stock at $100 a share in 1930, at $100 a share in 1931 and 1932, and at $100 a share from 1933 to 1937, inclusive. At yesterday's market price of around 234 for American Telephone stock the privilege of converting bonds into stock at 150 next year would figure to be worth about $23.24 a share on the common stock. As there are nearly 12,000,000 shares outstanding the total value of the conversion right would be worth about $106,000,000 to the stockholders.

But there may be even some addition to the value of the melon. If the bondholder exchanges his bonds for stock and there is a balance of bonds he may take an additional share by paying the difference between the balance on his bonds and the conversion price of the stock. The bonds will be dated July 1 and will mature July 1, 1937. They are redeemable until 1938 at 105 on sixty days' notice and thereafter at par.

This is the first offering of bonds by the American Telephone company since 1925, when about $125,000,000 of 5 per cent debentures were sold. Since then the company has financed itself by offering stock to stockholders. The proceeds of the present bond issue will be used to pay off $75,000,000 of collateral trust notes maturing July 1 and for the construction program of the Bell system, which is understood to include the proposed trans-Atlantic cable.

Good Quarter for Steel. With the American steel industry booming along in one of the most active periods in its history, it was expected the United States Steel corporation would make an excellent first quarter report. The actual figures were all that had been expected. Net earnings after all charges were $42,338,563, which was equivalent, after preferred dividends, to $5.04 a share on the common stock. Net earnings for the first quarter of 1928 were $31,521,571, or $2.11 a share, and net earnings for the final quarter of 1928 were $30,725,896, or $2.43 a share.

After paying dividends on the preferred and common stocks, the initial quarter of this year produced a surplus of $28,427,117, which compared with a surplus of only $2,573,541 for the first quarter of 1928. The initial quarter of this year saw a constant expansion in steel production, which reached a new high mark in March and has shown no slackening since. Despite heavy output, unfilled orders on March 31 were 4,410,718 tons, compared with 3,974,719 on Dec. 31, 1928, and 4,285,206 on March 31, 1928.

At Capacity and Above. This week the mills of both the United States Steel and Bethlehem Steel corporations are reported running about 103 per cent of rated capacity, or 3 per cent above last week and 7 per cent above a fortnight ago. Independent mills have expanded to more than 99 per cent, compared with 98 per cent for the last two weeks.

The Inland Steel company reported first quarter net profits at $2,007,241, equivalent to $2.50 a share on 1,200,000 common shares, compared with $2,291,411, or $1.76 a share, on the same amount of common stock, after preferred dividends, in the first quarter of 1928. The preferred stock was retired last year.

Gov't Barges Crititized by Private Lines

BY SCRUTATOR.

Not all the barge lines on the navigable streams of the interior of this continent are owned and operated by the government.

As this is written one tow of barges on its way up the Mississippi, privately owned and competing to some extent with Uncle Sam's lines, is carrying fifty-seven carloads of freight destined for Chicago. By the end of the week the goods will be transferred at Yonkers, N. Y., on the Ohio to the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad and brought here in a single train movement.

The shipment from New Orleans was made on a joint rail and water rate adopted by the barge line and the railroad last July. Included are canned meats from the Argentine, salmon from the Columbia river, pineapple from Hawaii, sugar from Cuba, and dried fruits from the California slopes. A large part of the articles came through the Panama canal.

According to J. E. Ford, vice president of the C. & E. I., the convey is the largest rail-water shipment that has come via the Mississippi to Chicago.

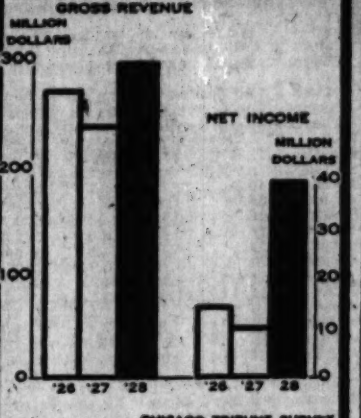

Basis for Complaint. Many railroads and agencies representing them complain constantly of the government's remaining in the transportation business. Its barges are carrying a considerable amount of freight along the Mississippi and the Warrior rivers and by the management's method of accounting apparently make money. The complaining roads, with reason, claim that any transportation having no expense for maintenance of way, for taxes, or for capital charges could easily be profitable.

Presumably the private barge lines, operating mainly on the Ohio and the streams flowing into it, have capital charges. Money was put in them. They also pay taxes. They do not maintain their roadbed. They have established terminals, some of expensive types, and at least one of them contemplates the additional expenditure of two million dollars for additional equipment—this on the authority of Mr. Ford, who added that this barge line reported it hauled 66,000 tons of freight in December alone.

A great deal of ingenuity has been displayed in the construction of the barges moving along the shallow southern streams. One company operating on the Cumberland has them in small sizes, with a carrying capacity of little more than a large box car. They are equipped with a caterpillar arrangement that permits them to crawl over the sandbars and in case they are to be returned empty after carrying a shipment may be "nested" one inside the other and thus cut down the length of the tow.

Carry Heavy Materials. Water transportation is, of course, much cheaper than rail. The large tows mentioned before left New Orleans on April 8. Only goods in which the time element of delivery is not vital can be profitably handled on inland waterways. Large quantities of steel and other heavy materials are now sent from Pittsburgh to the cities along the southern reaches of the Mississippi to be sent on by rail to the southwest.

The north and south railroads leaving Chicago are and have been asked to see water routes develop. They are favorable toward the increase in traffic to the Pacific coast through the Panama canal, nearly all the benefit of which has thus far accrued to the Atlantic seaboard. One of the chief points of objection to barge lines—that they are experiments in socialism by the government—would be done away with if those operated privately prove conclusively that they can make money and corporate capital can see its way to purchase those now federally operated.

MONTGOMERY WARD CO. SALES RISE 35 PER CENT

The largest sales for any April in its history were reported by Montgomery Ward & Co., Chicago mail order and chain store concern, last night. Sales totaled $21,573,323, an increase of $5,632,539, or 35.33 per cent, over April last year. Except for last January, the percentage of increase last month was the largest for any month since February, 1924. Furthermore, last month marked the twelfth consecutive month to show a gain over the same month of the preceding year.

Sales for the four months thus far this year totaled $80,974,097, an increase of $19,456,813, or 31.63 per cent, over the same period last year. Sears, Roebuck & Co. announced that monthly sales reports hereafter will not be issued until several days after the first of each month owing to longer time needed to receive reports from the individual stores and branches in its chain of establishments.

WHEELER CITES ADVANTAGES IN RESERVE POLICY

Defends Attitude on Speculation.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., April 30.—Harry A. Wheeler, Chicago banker, defended the federal reserve board today in connection with its handling of the speculative situation in an address at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

The blame for recent credit conditions, he said, should be distributed upon the shoulders of the banks, bond brokers, and dealers in securities, and the men and women who are speculators in securities. Mr. Wheeler suggested that one way to aid the situation would be to curtail the issuance of new shares of stock until the market has digested those already outstanding.

In reviewing financial events of the past two years Mr. Wheeler referred to the action of the federal reserve board in forcing a reduction of the discount rate of the Chicago federal reserve bank "in the interest—let us frankly say—of international finance."

Helps Increase Markets.

Although the reduction stimulated speculation, Mr. Wheeler said that it had helped to stabilize exchanges and increase European markets for American goods.

"Let us say frankly, as many critics have done, that when the time came to realize that there was an expanding credit there should have been a drastic increase in the discount rate in order to thwart, if possible, some of the expansion of credit that was going on," said Mr. Wheeler.

"Let us, on the other side, look frankly at the conditions that existed in late 1927 and in 1928 in the early part of the year and up to the summer. There were mitigating circumstances of such a nature that had we been in control of those facilities that made for the making of the rate and the changing of our interest, I doubt whether we would have done differently than the federal reserve board did at the time, although we can be free now to say that criticism may properly lodge against them for not immediately going from 3 1/2 per cent to 5 1/2 per cent or 6 per cent in order that they might put the fear of God into the speculator."

Forecast Is Hardest.

"It is easy to see errors after an occurrence, but it is not so easy to see them before; and dealing with the affairs as the federal reserve board and the system must deal with them, with a view of international conditions as well as those that are domestic, we have no right to cast aspersions on the board for its action, even though it may have tended to increase our speculative movement."

Form Special Co. to Invest in Call Loans

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, April 30.—The first organization formed to operate independently in the call money market was announced today by John H. Allen, former vice president of the National City bank and president of the American and Foreign Bank corporation.

The new corporation will be known as the First Call Money Company of America and it plans to begin operations immediately under a plan by which the general public will be invited to participate in the profits available through the high rates charged for call loans. The corporation will start with 100,000 shares of stock of no par value, all of which have been subscribed.

Associated with Mr. Allen are a number of bankers, industrial executives, and economists.

Wide fluctuations in call money rates in recent months have called attention repeatedly to the fact that there is no organization devoted exclusively to operations in this market. The banks have been the main reliance, although loans placed for the account of corporation have reached large proportions of late.

The corporation funds in the market are entirely unregulated and sudden withdrawals at times when the lending corporations encountered special needs for funds have frequently come near to demoralizing rates. In the past the banks have filled the void caused by sudden withdrawals of corporation funds, but with the banks concentrating on the reduction of their own debts to the reserve banks and with the federal reserve authorities pressing for a curb on so-called speculative loans, relief has frequently been slow in coming.

The new corporation is intended by its backers to help stabilization of the call money rate while admitting the investing public into participation.

of Cities Service Company

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

New York, April 30.—Stockholders of Cities Service company at a special meeting held immediately after the annual meeting today voted to approve the splitup of the common stock on a four for one basis, as a result of which four shares of new no par stock will be issued for each share of $20 par stock now outstanding, giving the company an outstanding common capitalization of 24,000,000 shares. Only the General Motors company and the Standard Oil company of New Jersey have a larger number of common shares issued.

BIG FLATS MAY GO UP AT RIDGE AND CENTRAL ST.

Ernstson Site Leased for 100 Years.

BY AL CHASE.

Ernstson is to have a huge apartment building, costing in the neighborhood of $200,000, it was stated last night by attorneys, as a result of George E. Seegren, contractor, leasing a large parcel of land at Central street, corner avenue, and Ridge avenue, for 100 years from Northwestern university. The deed, filed for record yesterday, contains a provision that the lease must erect a building before April 1, 1931, to cost not less than $100,000.

Notwithstanding the fact that attorneys for both the lessor and lessee stated that work would start on a large apartment project, Mr. Seegren informed THE TRIBUNE by phone that he had no definite plans for any building at present. Oldest and Williams, attorneys for the land, are working on plans for a large improvement of this property.

Property Zoned for Apartments.
The property just leased fronts on Central street 360 feet. It has an east frontage on Ridge avenue of 184 feet and 429 feet west frontage on Girard avenue. The northwest corner of Central and Girard, 60x 170, is not included in yesterday's deed. This small parcel is zoned for commercial purposes. The land just leased by Mr. Seegren is zoned for apartments.

The lease calls for an annual rental of 4 per cent on $350,000 or $21,000 during the first fifty years. For the remaining half century the lessee will pay a yearly rental of 6 per cent on the "true value of the premises, not taking into consideration the improvements." Bayley, Merrick, Webster &
Gregory were attorneys for the university. Harold J. Dalton represented
Mr. Seegren. Leland P. Arthur and George P. Burgess were brokers.

Bendix Firm in Deal.

Motor Industries, Inc.—a Bendix subsidiary—has acquired two parcels of approximately 165x33 feet at the southwest corner of South Park way and 33rd street on which it proposes to erect a de luxe automobile garage and other service establishment. One parcel was purchased from Sam

Capacity to Manage

... an item which does not show under Assets.

THERE is a tangible factor which decides the intrinsic worth of securities, never itemized in balance sheets. This factor is the capacity of a company's management.

A business must have a product or service which can be sold profitably, and sufficient working capital. Given these, management is then the factor which decides in measure of success.

For thirty years this organization has concerned itself chiefly with the capacity of management when considering the financing of corporations. To companies with capable management capital has been provided for extending their activities and for increasing their earning power. The soundness and potential possibilities of securities issued to provide such capital depend directly upon the ability of a company's management.

Suggested for current investment are four stocks of sound, growing and well-managed companies. Descriptions may be had by requesting Investment List 355.

BENDIX LEADS SNAPPY RISE OF CHICAGO STOCKS

Pool Activity Sends Shares Up 10 1/2 Points.

BY GEORGE HAMMOND.

Expectations that the call money market will be replenished with plenty of millions in the next few days which were temporarily tied up for month-end settlement purposes brought a snappy upturn to the Chicago stock market yesterday in trading that registered net gains up to nearly 11 points.

Bendix was again the leader of the day, closing at 148 after sales of 35,250 shares, a net gain of 10 1/2 points. The movement was attributed to pool activity preceding the listing of the stock on the New York board.

Sears 9 1/2 Points.

John Morrell jumped into the active list by soaring 9 1/2 points to 69 1/2 on sales of about 10,250 shares. The buying was the result of expectations that the annual report for the fiscal year ended March 31, to be issued in a few days, will show record earnings and will conform to the increase registered during the first half of the fiscal year ended Sept. 30, when net equaled $4.36 a share, compared with $3.88 a share in the whole of the preceding fiscal year.

Monsanto Chemical advanced two points, continuing to reflect a good earnings report. American Yvette common and preferred were up two points and a point, respectively, in response to reports of increased sales and earnings.

Grigsby-Grumow responded to the record earnings statement for ten months with a gain of 6 1/2. Sonatron Tube was under accumulation on the understanding that negotiations to make the company the nucleus of a merger of six tube manufacturing corporations have been completed. The report is that five eastern concerns will come into the deal and that official announcement will be made as soon as the financial details concerning the basis on which the stocks of the various companies will be taken in are completed. Auditors are now working on the Boston books in connection with the deal.

Rumors Affect Trading.

Ceco advanced 3 1/4 on rumors that the company will figure in the Sonatron deal but confirmation was lacking. Zenith advanced a major fraction.

The Houdaille-Hershey and General Spring Bumper issues advanced from two to 3 1/4 points in connection with the report that the acquisition of General Spring Bumper by Houdaille-Hershey is near. Houdaille stockholders will meet May 16 to act on a proposal to increase the "A" stock from 300,000 to 400,000 shares and the "B" from 500,000 to 1,000,000 shares.

A. M. Cagle was 1 1/4 higher on an announcement that April earnings are larger than any month in the first quarter ended March 31, which showed a 43 per cent increase over the same period last year. The first quarter net was $193,631, equivalent to $1.51 a share on the 120,000 shares outstanding.

Standard Dredging sold up a major fraction. The company announced that it has taken over the plant of the former Columbia Dredging company and will commence work on two million yards of dredging for harbor improvement at Norfolk, Va., for the federal government.

The Stockline Furniture corporation announced that it expects to have its new plant in Chicago completed about May 15, which will increase the output of the present factory by fifty per cent.

COTTON HAS SMALL RALLY

Although the movement of cotton prices was irregular yesterday and at one time showed an advance of around $1 a bale, the market yielded from the high point under scattered selling pressure, only to rally at the last, and closed unchanged to 14 points higher on futures in Chicago, with other markets up from 5 to 18 points. The market was considered overvalued to start and a covering movement carried prices higher, which brought selling pressure and a decline, from the top at the last, but there were net gains of from 5 to 16 points on futures and 6 points on spots.

Sentiment was in the main bearish, and it was said there has been too much short selling. Liverpool closed from 1 to 3 points lower with spot sales increased to 4,000 bales. Spreading operations were not extensive, although a fair business was done early that way and traders evened up at the last.

Weather over the belt was more or less unsettled, with light rains in the eastern portion, which the trade considered very bullish. There were reports of damage to the crop in some sections, with reseeding necessary, also an increased demand for spot cotton, which was 5 points higher, New York being 19.45c, with sales 900 bales; New Orleans, 18.40c; Galveston, 18.30c, sales, 88 bales; Houston, 18.25c, no sales. A better business was reported in Worth Street at lower prices. Prices follow:

"There Are No Alps"

When his officers emphasized the tremendous difficulties of leading an army across the Alps, Napoleon folded his arms and looked quietly up at the snow-clad mountains.

"There are no Alps," he said, and his army marched triumphantly over them.

THE ROOKERY, CHICAGO
TELEPHONE CENTRAL 9510

The American Chatillon Corporation was organized in April, 1928, by a group of substantial business men and bankers, many of whom are internationally known for their success in textile and financial fields. It was organized to manufacture Rayon by both the acetate and viscose processes.

In beginning production in March, 1929, the corporation selected a time believed to be the most favorable since the establishment of the Rayon industry.

Rayon is now consumed at the rate of one pound per capita as against half a pound only a few years ago. The demand for Rayon is rapidly increasing. The American Chatillon Corporation does not have to bear the burden of former costly manufacturing experiments. It has the exclusive use of important inventions, patents, and improved manufacturing methods, all of which have been thoroughly tested and proven. It expects to produce a brand of Rayon superior in any now manufactured in this country.

ADVERTISE IN THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE

THE UNKISSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS.
Joe Harrison, living in London and working for some doctors in Harley street, is ill-fated. He is about to leave for the office one morning when he is informed that his fiancée, Geoffrey, has been released from the hospital. He is told that she is in the office. He is told that she is in the office. He is told that she is in the office.

INSTALLMENT III.
AN UNFORTUNATE REMEMBRANCE.
The fact was that for Dr. Travers, too, the bottom had just dropped out of the universe.

"Miss Harrison, when Dr. Locke comes in, will you please tell him that I want to speak to him; and that it's important?"

"Yes, I will. At once?"

"No. Have I any patients after half-past four, this afternoon?" as Dr. Travers asked her she looked up at the clock, standing in the square of the morning sunshine through the open window on the neutral tinted wall, the people photographs, the man's head of smoothly flattened back gold. Any other morning he would have looked as coolly radiant as that square of sunshine. There was today a blankness. Joy saw as much of one as she had seen of the other. For months now other men had ceased to exist, except as two conductors or employees.

"You have nothing after half-past four, Dr. Travers."

"Good, arrange that I have a talk with Dr. Locke some time after that."

"Yes, I will."

The secretary's every day business voice! "Mustn't let any of these things get on my nerves," she said. "I'm not really unhappy. She would be. Ah, poor child, she would be. But the time was not yet. Deadened by the force of the blow, she was still like a woman who had met with an accident and who looks down, smiling at a trickle of blood, at an arm that hangs at an odd, clumsy angle, but who has not yet awakened to the injury's pain."

It was just that chilly blank voice. Well, into that void there must be something flung the morning's work. Bills to make out. Notes. Booking of appointments. Telephone calls. All so different from "the morning's work" in the glamorous old days. As soon as they were engaged, Geoffrey had happily agreed that one cannot successfully combine love making with business. ("I should get absolutely nothing done, little sweetheart, and my patients are pestered for finished copy of 'The Trap'. You go off and work for these doctor men! Promise me to let either of them make love to you, and I'll arrange some grim person for me to dictate to; and then you and I can crash off to dine and dance and make ourselves enchanting to each other after the day's work.")

Never again! Hours slipped by. In that big Harley street house two blankly stunned people awoke to let their workaday selves carry on.

"Cool. Thank yer, Mia."

Joy typed.
"Dear madam: In reply to your note, Dr. Travers asks me to forward the prescription—
"And in the consulting room, the strength behind Dr. Travers' quiet, "What is the trouble?" put confidence into one after another. None so much as he. Patients came and went. Joy, producing the appropriate smile and weather remark as she booked a fresh appointment, thought, "Heaven. How can all these women still be going on, occupied with their lives or their overweight or their 'threesome little pains—just there?' Most of them are quite old. Forty, fifty, even. . . . You wouldn't think they would still be able to care a hoot what happened to them! Here am I, quite young. Twenty-one. Do I have to live forty more years? Like this? With 'No shine in sun, no salt in sea.' What was that question—?"

Unfortunately she remembered. That woke the pain. It was the doctor's long Geoffrey Ford had made up after they had had the typical engaged couple's discussion about what other would do if the other died before they could get married. "O. Geoffrey! Should you rightfully mind?"

"My dear, I shouldn't be able to touch my tea. . . . What about you?"

"Geoffrey! Fondly he had laughed. Now, diabolically accurate, her type-verse had clicked out the verse he had made up of her answer:

"Were you to die, sweetheart, the sea would turn to gray,
Brown hair you caught and kissed would wilt to gray,
Bright eyes by bitter tears be wept away
Were you to die, were you to die."

Written for her! Geoffrey, catching the pencil out of her hand, had scribbled the words on her pad. . . . They were printed on her heart now; the lines tapped them home.

"Were you to die, all life would cease for me.
No shine in sun, sweetheart, no salt in sea,
No red in rose! My single wish would be
With you to die, with you—"

"O. Mia Harrison!"

"I'd like to speak to you, too—"

"O. yes?"

"No one could tell from the girl's manner that, within her, other voices were clamoring. One exasperated, "O. Do let me get out and go; I've got to write a most important note. I've got to tell a man I've not been and cage him. What fun would that be for the girl? No fear. I've got the best. I'm damned if I put up with a spurious imitation and Geoffrey's! Can't I be allowed to go soon and write it off to him?" Another voice, more placidly begged, "O. Geoffrey! Don't leave me! I'll do anything you like. Only don't send me out of your life. Let me stay out your faithful letter. You don't know what losing you means to me. You don't know! Don't sentence me to it! Worse if you leave me to me. I can't, Geoffrey! Can't let you go. . . ."

Thus the rising clamor within. Outwardly, the polite, businesslike, "Yes, Dr. Travers."

Even the man's troubled eyes had noticed now how pale was this girl's face.

"Better go out and have your lunch first, Miss Harrison. It's past one o'clock. I have been keeping you."

She murmured something about not being hungry, but he repeated that she had to go out and have lunch; and she was glad enough to escape.

On the days she was accustomed to lunch sitting on a bench in Regent's park, surrounded by sunshine, air, and happy thoughts that flocked around her as gaily as the sparrows that came hopping for her sandwich crumbs.

There, she sat down in the ironic sunshine. In her small dispatch case, with sandwiches, milk chocolate, apples—she had brought writing materials.

Now, at last, to answer Geoffrey's letter.

"Little girl," he said, "I leave it to you—!" for which quite a number of women would have voted him a rotter. Wiggling out of the onus of letting the girl, putting the responsibility upon her? Hound. In any case he seemed to have acted throughout like the most utter skunk (besing the doctor's pardon) whose words were concerned.

But it is not those who have been the sweethearts of Don Juan who understand Don Juan; girls like Joy do not dismiss as a "skunk" the fated creature who has kissed them awake.

"Not his fault," she realized hopelessly. "Not his fault. He is just the man who can't marry. The born bachelor novelist. In his element arranging a charming flat; giving delightful cocktail parties; 'being seen' at first class; . . . Strangers asking 'Is Geoffrey Ford married?' . . . 'O. No. That attractive dark little woman with him is his mother.' . . . Into Joy's heart Geoffrey's young looking mother had, under a great deal of linking "charm" and welcome, resented her. Mrs. Ford would not let her son's engagement was off."

Thus, this huddled her sandwiches back into a packet and ran out to two passing bare foot children.

"Thank yer, Mia!"

"And here," she added, apples, chocolate. How could one eat, in the middle of a love crash, like a man? With this problem upon one? Again she ran out that envelope. "Must it be off?" "What you say, gose."

GASOLINE ALLEY—WALT OFFERS A RECOMMENDATION

Motherhood Gets a Hand in This Movie

Night Club, Mammy Song, Daughter Saved!

Produced by Fox.
Directed by Irving Cummings.
Presented at the State-Lake theater.

Mammy. Louise Dresser
Linda. June Collyer
Jerry. Allen Lane
Candid. Oscar Apfel
Mammy. Marjorie Beebe

By Miss Thine.

Good morning!

It's difficult to face Louise Dresser. With a right good will she always takes over any role that's handed her and squeezes all the goodness from it. So, she does the best that could be done with the three ring circus affair that falls to her lot in "Not Quite Decent."

This is a Texas Guinan-Al Jolson mother part, in a picture that without Miss Dresser would be pretty blah. I wish they'd seen their way clear to get along without the Al Jolson clear, for surely the lady could have sung "Empty Arms" quite as well paleface as blackface. Somehow the mammy makeup, clothes, and kinky wig are strangely repellent on Miss Dresser. Also it must be said that her singing, which, apparently, is NOT hers, adds little to the picture's pull. Her breakdown, which is the film's finale, is effective, but would have been more so had they permitted the actress to be herself—and not a minstrel mammy.

The story of "Not Quite Decent" is that of a girl, daughter, who, disapproved by her father, who has not seen since the girl was a baby, about to make the same false steps which she had made, steps into that daughter's scheme of things and "crowds" an awful lot of mothering into a few hours' time.

Miss Dresser is the whole show in this picture. True, she has fair direction and an able enough supporting cast, but the story is an old hokum and the synchronization is poor.

Rin-Tin-Tin Sees

Virtue Win, Villain Fall

"FROZEN RIVER."

Produced by Warner Brothers.
Directed by Herman Weingart.
Presented at the Orpheum theater.

The Cast:

Lebo. Rin-Tin-Tin
Bibi. Darryl F. Zanuck
Jerry. Raymond McKee
Jane. Miss Quire
Hazy. Josef Swickard
Potter. Frank Campana
Pierce. Len Harvey

Well, Rin-Tin-Tin carries away the honors in this picture, even though Lebo, who is starred.

The "sweetest little fellow" just wanders about through the sequences sucking stick candy, patting the nice doggie and smiling now and then. This is not the type of story for him, and I for one would a heap rather know he was back in kindergarten than due to appear in many more like it.

"Frozen River" is just another one of those films about the old man about to be done out of his mine by villains who are foiled by Rin-Tin-Tin—and Rinty's master, who is in love with the victim's beautiful granddaughter. Davey is the old man's little grandson. Everything comes out nicely for Rinty, Rinty's master, beautiful girl, and child.

The picture has some gorgeous scenery, good photography, and a capable supporting cast. But, having no surprises, it drags. It can only be listed as just another movie.

See you soon.

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Miss Ivan Boyd, 856 Sheridan road, was awarded $5.

The Question.

Would you rather carry an umbrella, or get wet?

The Answer.

Miss Emily Snyder, 7056 Wentworth avenue, beauty shop worker— I prefer to carry an umbrella, and sometimes when it pours the largest of large ones would be none too large. I wish I had an umbrella right now, even if it isn't raining, because it looks like it. An umbrella costs but a few dollars, and a new hat costs $25 maybe—though mine didn't cost that much.

Harry Hatch, 7512 Rogers avenue, stenographer—I'd rather get wet. Why bother with an umbrella? Buy one and if it's raining the next fellow thinks it's anybody's property, then you lose your umbrella, lose your temper, and you may get wet, too. If it is raining you wouldn't have your umbrella anyway.

Miss Katherine Whall, 4520 Lake Park avenue, Western Union Telegraph manager—I'd rather get wet. An umbrella is unnecessary, it's a nuisance when it is not actually in use. If one is downtown it is a nuisance in the traffic, and I am always afraid of poking out someone's eye. During rain one usually can get shelter until the worst is over.

E. B. Schmidt, 982 First National Bank building, real estate—I am carrying one now. The reason I carry one is so as not to get wet. There is the health standpoint as well as the preservation of the looks of clothes. The most of us are subject to colds, and a cold not infrequently follows exposure in a rain. An umbrella is not becoming.

Mrs. Samuel Roth, 88 West Washington street, housewife—if there are indications of rain, I would rather carry an umbrella than risk a drenching. Clothes, especially hats were made for sunshine and fair weather.

Birth Control Clinic Moves from Gotham

Mrs. Sanger to Tell Her Methods Here.

A union of birth control interests with social agencies throughout the country and the protection by law of the doctors now illegally distributing and exchanging birth control information, are the aims this year of Mrs. Margaret Sanger, who spoke yesterday at the annual luncheon of the Illinois Birth Control League at the new Chicago Woman's club.

While in Chicago Mrs. Sanger hopes, through mid-western organizations to get the help of 1,000 prominent men and women to support the league's attack on the federal law which puts birth control on a par with obscenities and abortion.

"We now have the cooperation of 20,000 doctors," Mrs. Sanger said. "Although some states, like Illinois, allow physicians to give oral birth control information, the federal code forbids advice by letter or the exchange by scientists themselves of contraceptive research results or measures. We feel that the time has come when they should be permitted the freedom of the mails."

"Three-fourths of the need for charities would disappear if birth control information were made possible to all classes. Our work has already become a tremendous factor in the reduction of maternal mortality, but it is still so high in this country as to be a disgrace, simply because contraceptive advice is not to be had by the majority."

Slim, auburn haired Mrs. Sanger spoke quietly on the subject which in the last 15 years has taken her in and out of jail and for which she continues fighting.

"The fact that our clinical research was recently raided in New York, and that our doctors and nurses will be up for trial Thursday will help the cause rather than harm it," she said.

Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter, president of the Illinois Birth Control league, told of the year's work in Chicago, pointing out that in addition to headquarters at 264 North Wabash avenue, there are five clinics operating within the law, one at the House of Social Service, one at the Jewish People's institute, one at Hull house, and one at Mary Crane nursery.

"ADVENTUROUS GOD" IS IDEAL OF MODERNS, DR. G. C. STEWART SAYS

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 30.—Referring repeatedly to noted scientists and their professions of belief in a God, the Rev. George Craig Stewart of St. Luke's church in Evanston told the opening meeting of the 55th annual congress of the Episcopal church here tonight that "We can believe in a God who is not only personal, but who is an adventurous God."

The clergyman thus took a new slant at the question of "What can we believe about God?" and he devoted considerable time to what Einstein recently said. Dr. Stewart said, "Einstein has told us he believes in 'Spinoza's God' who reveals himself in the orderly harmony of all existing things, but not in God who concerns himself with the destinies and acts of human beings."

"Thus," asserted Dr. Stewart, "Einstein declares himself no atheist, but rather a deist," thus reversing the opinion of Bishop James Cannon, Jr. that Einstein is only an atheist.

"Einstein conceives God as a kind of eternal Einstein," continued Dr. Stewart. "Interested in whole processes, but bored by people whom he regards somewhat as modern physicists describe electrons—small particles of nothing moving very swiftly."

Though we cannot prove there is a God so completely that one could be called insane for not believing, according to Dr. Stewart, we still can believe God exists, that he is imminent and transcendent, that he is a personal and even an adventurous God."

THEATER

"BILLIE":

Song-and-dance play, in two acts, based by George M. Cohan on his comedy named "Broadway Jones"; made known in Chicago (by Mr. Cohan) April 29, 1929, in the Erlanger theater, with this cast:

Billie. Polly Walker
Jackson Jones. Joseph Wastall
Mrs. Gerard, his fiancée. Val Stanton
Chester, his lawyer. Ernie Stanton
Walker, Jones' partner. William Newbold
Winnie Sheldon. Marjorie Lane
Pembroke. Carl Francis
A maid. June O'Dea
Rashlin. Joe Ross
Thompson. David London
Higgins, the foreman. Richard Barry
John Bottawood. Joseph Kennedy
A page. Ethel Allen
Will. Billy Bradford
Phoebe. Phyllis Wallace
Charles. Charles Sals
A sheriff. Albert Hyde
Sheldon. Albert From

HERE is the first song-and-dance show from Mr. Cohan in a Chicago theater since, late in 1913, his "Little Nellie Kelly" was sung and danced in the Grand Opera House, which then bore his name as "The Cohan Opera House."

For the matter of that, he has in more than five years authored but one other—"The Merry Malones," wherefrom, when I saw it in New York, I took more enjoyment than did the populace; and "The Merry Malones" has nothing much to do with "Billie" save that Miss Walker and Mr. Newbold were in it, and were good in it. If you have any difficulty in remembering "Broadway Jones," the foundation of "Billie," you, perhaps, will be able to identify it as the place wherein the hero, broke from Broadway spending, inherited a run-down chewing-gum works and, thanks to the encouragement of a nice girl who worked there, made it pay so well that he soon was in the list of American millionaires—a distinction not so common in 1913, when the piece was noted by him in Chicago, as now.

Well, "Billie" sticks with reasonable fidelity to the old piece, so far as the tale is concerned. The character of the title is the nice girl of the 1913 play; Jones, by the way, mixed up with a widow of fabulous wealth—a character which Mr. Cohan is said to have patterned on the celebrated Amy Crocker, of San Francisco, Manhattan Island, and most of the Continental capitals; a girl whose dad is a big shot in the advertising business still fixes things so that the fumes brand of gum gets country-wide (victories); and the villain is the tale continues to be the representative of the hated chewing-gum trust.

However, "Billie" contains some characters that are not in my memory of "Broadway Jones." Of these, where, I should say, written in by Mr. Cohan to provide employment for Val and Ernie Stanton, who come in together, exchange comic banter, go off together much as they used to do in the two-act. They are amusing in this old-fashioned "sidewalk conversation" fashion; but they aren't much more like seasoned Londoners than they were when the first came over from the music-halls. Then, there is the matter of songs and dances to be taken care of; and Mr. Cohan has managed to do this without seriously cutting into his plot, although he has taken to the expedient of what are known as "curtains" when he desires to change full-stage sets.

The best of the songs—of which there are many—are called "Come to St. Thomas"; and it isn't save in the title, at all reminiscent of "Come to St. George's," which all of us were whistling or trying to whistle in the days of "The Belle of Mayfair." There are other good ones, including "New York," which is a thing of unexpected rhymes and rhythms, and appropriate dances have been provided for nearly all the ditties, most of which have been written for two or more performers. Indeed, Mr. Cohan is gone in here, as he did in "The Merry Malones," rather strongly for elaborate ensemble numbers, and also for reprise whenever he hits on a tune that has the vitality to stand up under repetition.

Miss Walker, who takes more attention in the ads than any other of the numerous cast, is a nice-looking gentle lassie who has been trained by Mr. Cohan in succession to Miss Elizabeth Erice. She is good to look at, easy to listen to, and is liked by the audience. Mr. Newbold is dry, easy, and surefire in the part of Jones' partner acted by George Parsons in other days. All the others named above serve, including Miss O'Dea and Mr. Ross, who are a "team" in dancing; Miss Wallace and Mr. Bradford, who are another; and Cunningham and Clements, whose names are not in the cast, but who make up a third "team." And, then, there is a formal ballet by eight girls.

"Billie" sums up as pleasant, fun-filled, and what is, perhaps, meant when a show is called "sweet and clean."

Better Housing Urged as Cure of City's Slums

Social Workers, Officials Seeking Methods.

A campaign to improve Chicago's housing conditions was begun yesterday at a meeting in the City club attended by leaders in social and philanthropic work.

They pointed out that Chicago in the last thirty years has done wonders in public improvements, but overlooked the problem of sheltering the trillions of its workers, a problem that grows, according to Miss Jane Addams of Hull House and Miss Mary E. McDowell of the University of Chicago Settlement, so Chicago is threatened with slums like those in the large European cities.

At the end of the meeting, attended by 200, Graham Taylor was given charge of a committee to form a permanent organization. He is the fourth editor of the Chicago Commons. Other committee members are: Miss McDowell, Mrs. Fred A. Moore, chairman of the City-club's committee on housing; Dr. William A. Evans, health officer; Mrs. Travers and former city health commissioner, and Dr. G. Koehler of the city health department.

The session, beginning with a luncheon, was called to a memorial to Charles E. Hall, who was chief sanitary inspector for the health department, who died at his desk last October after twenty-one years' service.

Lawrence Vellios, New York secretary of the National Housing association, was the chief speaker.

Building Commissioner Chris Pasch's plan to raise 1,000 abandoned, unsafe, and insanitary buildings was attacked by Benjamin J. Rosenthal, capitalist, who has been studying and experimenting with housing as a social problem for the last decade.

To tear down those buildings, without constructing new ones for the occupants, said Mr. Rosenthal, "will make conditions worse. There will follow a further concentration in our tenement districts, aggravating rather than alleviating congestion, crime, vice and disease."

Something constructive must be done before this demolition goes too far. The Marshall Field and the Julius Rosenwald housing projects will not solve the situation.

"The Marshall Field (Garden Apartments) houses can be operated economically for a rent lower than $13-a-room per month. Those who can afford to pay this much are apt to prefer other localities."

Almost seven per cent of the homes of Chicago have an income of $20 a week or less. More than half of the households cannot afford to pay more than $8 per room per month, accepting the proved theory that rent should not exceed twenty-five per cent of one's income."

A. K. Stern, son-in-law of Julius Rosenwald and secretary of that philanthropic model flat building for colored tenants at 47th street and Michigan avenue, replied that his enterprise was a $3,000,000 experiment to prove that slums can be avoided.

Mr. Vellios urged that Chicago attack its housing problem with the same energy that it has displayed in public improvements. He told that London has raised entire slum districts and built modern, healthful homes for its poor.

Dr. Evans declared that the excess condemnation law approved by referendum at the polls last February gives the city the power to clear slum districts for modern tenements.
